PULLETS FOR HATCHING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says: Pullets of broody varieties often become broody sooner than the old hens, but many people think they should not be set on eggs, as they are not dependable. We have frequently used them, and found them quite satisfactory, if properly managed. They must, however, be sitting closely on the nest before the eggs are given to them. They should also be chosen from very broody varieties. Wyandotte pullets are very uncertain, and must be carefully watched before being placed on the eggs. Very young pullets should not be used; they should be at least nine or ten months old, and have been laying for some months.

HARDY ANNUALS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times the Garden Correspondent says: Of these, we are indebted to California for some of the hardiest and showiest of the tribe, from which we select half-a-dozen, although, with one exception, known in our own gardens for a hundred years, still occupy a prominent position, and this, whether for autumn or spring sowing, being good-tempered enough to tolerate our average winters. Bartonia aurea, comparatively low-growing, gives galaxy of golden flowers the season through, and why so seldom seen we cannot understand. The Godetias, in various colours, are showy ad nauseam, if we dare say so, but the elegant Clarkias and annual Lupins are peculiarly attractive. Collinsia bicolor, introduced later, is charming in its quaint, two-coloured blossoms; and last, not least, of our half-dozen Californians is the dear little Baby Blue Eyes, Nemophila insignis, unique as a bordering to bed or border.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN (METROPOLITAN).

	Numbers on sale this week as compared with last.	Corresponding weeks of 1930	1931
Beasts	1,753—decrease 630	3,214	3,418
Sheep and lambs	4,744—decrease 1,495	4,156	5,151
Veal calves	3	3	4

Numbers of cattle offered for sale here this week showed a sharp drop, the supply being only half that of last day. In the circumstances trade all round proved of a decidedly healthier and dearer nature, not that there was any material expansion in off-take, only that the balance between supply and demand became a much tighter fit, which owners were not slow to turn to their advantage where possible on money question. Much the same number of buyers came on market, which included a few exporters, who were absent during the holidays. Commission men were keener patrons for heavy cattle, but otherwise there was no apparent extra stir in cross-Channel dealings, the volume of requirements being about recent average for Lancashire and a few Midland markets in Yorkshire area. There was a palpably meagre number of choice meated cattle offered, especially of the fancy or handy heifer class suitable to leading local victuallers' requirements, and for the pick of these rather higher prices were occasionally recorded. Bullocks were a brisk trade, more especially the medium weights; in fact, all useful classes of heifers and bullocks were readily cashed at prices from 1s. to 2s. and 3s. per cwt. dearer, at which prices all on offer cleared early. Prices, as compared with last year, show an advance of 3s. to 4s. per cwt. against a drop of 1,658 head. Beef cows also experienced a brisk trade, but only for the nice young classes of the heifer type, which were quickly bought up at dearer rates. Old and lean sorts being in less numbers proved a freer sale, but the money question showed little change; still few cattle were unsold at mid-stages, and a complete clearance seemed possible. Sales—Prime handy weight heifers 47s. to 49s. per cwt., fancy blacks 50s., bullocks 45s. to 46s. and 47s.; heavier weights 42s. to 44s., and rougher 39s. to 41s. Beef cows, best 23s. to 29s., extra 30s. to 32s.; other classes 18s. to 22s., and bulls, which were in small supply and wanted at firmer rates, namely, 27s. to 31s., according to class.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.—There was a sharp drop in supplies here this week, there being 1,495 head less to deal with. Choice quality mutton continues rather scarce, and, with the smaller numbers to deal with, business opened tolerably active and firm, and, so far as opening transactions were concerned, values generally showed an advance of 2s. to 3s. per head. However, where early bids were refused they were subsequently found more difficult to secure. Heavy and half-meated classes were more inquired for on the scarcity of the prime article, and if values were no better market looked like clearing. Lamb trade proved satisfactory. Although prices were not high, they were considered good for the quality on offer, and more could have been sold. Shippers have done practically nothing in lambs so far, and business in this direction for hoggets showed no improvement. Market closed strong for all butchers' classes at the following:—Prime mutton, 9d. to 10d., very fancy 10½d.; other sorts, 6½d. to 8½d. per lb., and lambs, 30s. to 45s. and 50s. per head.

DAIRY CATTLE.—Just 180 head of milch cattle entered for sale on this market, few of which could be classed as strictly first class or suiting best shipping requirements, and for the pick of those £24 to £25 should be reckoned an exceptionally good price in present depressed position of cow trade. Heifers were more freely cashed, which was due to scarcity, and for the right sort values showed some advance. Small and doubtful classes presented a slow and tedious ordeal to owners, biddings being most disappointing and clearance doubtful, notwithstanding the very low prices ruling. Prices over the day's proceedings worked out around the following:—Best cows, £19 to £22, extra £23 10s. and £24; heifers, £19 to £21, occasionally £22 and £23; secondary sorts, £13 to £17 10s., and smalls, etc., £9 to £12 10s. per head.

PIGS.—Offered, 1,185 head of swine, being 85 more than last week. Home and shipping buyers in much the same interests and commitments as last week. Market opened active and dear for well-finished bacon hogs, but the gathering on offer gave a small percentage of this class to draw up, and after an hour or so the energy of business lessened, and early bids were not so readily repeated. However, the right quality bacon hog sold well throughout, with an occasional advance here and there, but the small classes under 10st. were rather too plentiful, and, no matter how well-finished for pork, trade was not so satisfactory, and prices closed easier. Sows were a firm trade, the supply being small. Slips and bonhams more inquired for without any material change in values. Prime light-weights, 52s. to 56s. per cwt.; medium bacon, 56s. to 58s. and 60s.; heavier, 54s. to 56s. and 58s.; sows, 38s. to 40s. and 42s.; slips and bonhams, 12s. to 20s.; extras, 25s. to 27s. 6d. per head.

YORK.—Much smaller show of Irish and English store cattle, majority being drapes and heifers. Fairly large numbers of cattle changed hands. Highest price was £20. Small show of calving and milch cows experienced rather dear trade, and recent low prices recovered somewhat. Highest price was £25 10/-. Only fifty sheep shown, and no trade.

BRISTOL.—About 250 Irish cattle and 150 English on offer. Fair supply of beef. Prices, 80/- to 84/- per cwt. best quality dead-weight. Very poor inquiry for store cattle, some best three-year-olds making up to £20; yearlings £12 to £15. Short supply of milch cattle. Prices about the same on the week, £18 to £24. No mutton or lamb shown.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Supplies were again short and trade fair to good with values steady. Bacons, 11/- to 11/6, and of rather uneven weights; cutters also 11/- to 11/6, and sows 8/- per score, dead-weight.

WAR MEMORIAL PARK PROTEST.

INCHICORE ALLOTMENT-HOLDERS' ASSOCIATION.

At the annual general meeting of the Inchicore (Liffeyside) Allotment Holders' Association Mr. James Larkin was re-elected president, Mr. D. Power vice-president, Mr. Denis McDonnell hon. secretary, and Messrs. E. Bannon and W. Ward joint treasurers. Mr. Thomas Shaw, president of the United Irish Plotholders' Union, was present.

The hon. secretary, in his report, which was adopted, stated that there were 212 plots, with a total rental of £203 3s. 10d. per annum. In addition, £49 5s. 10d. in arrears had been recovered, and the number of those in debt to the committee had, therefore, been considerably lessened, and a further lessening was contemplated.

The plotholders view with concern the work in progress in connection with the War Memorial Park, and complaints have been received of trespass, but an understanding has been come to between the committee and the Board of Public Works whereby, in consideration of permission of access being granted to the board's officials, the board guarantees protection of plots, produce and water supply. This arrangement is without prejudice to any rights under the agreement entered into in 1924 between the board and the committee. "Many of the plotholders who would be disturbed are ex-Service men, and a percentage of them are unemployed. The opinion of counsel has been sought, and the advice is that the plotholders cannot be disturbed sooner than March, 1933. This gives the association a full year to devise ways and means towards the retention of the plots.

INNOVATIONS IN HATS.

NEW MATERIALS AND NEW SHAPES TO BE WORN.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Thursday.

THERE are many hat innovations this season. The appearance, for instance—or the re-appearance—of the square, folded crown is highly interesting. If it becomes popular this new innovation may herald several developments.

For one thing, it allows of some of the hair being tucked inside it, so that after all, if it supersedes the round-fitting crown, we may be induced to start a new style of hair-dressing, with the blessing of the milliners. Quite an important thing this, for without it not even the cleverest hair-dressing can prevail.

We shall see a variety of new brims. Some of these are no longer merely curved. Sometimes they are quite straight, sometimes they are saucer-shaped round a shallow crown, and the brim, which rolls at the edge, is another innovation.

Many of them look as if they might be difficult to wear, but the fact that the straws and materials of which they are composed are very light will help. "Feather-weight" is becoming more and more the motto of milliners, and horsehair is one of the principal materials used. There is even an artificial horsehair. This is one of the new hat fabrics; by the way, another is jersey woven with horsehair, and there is also a horsehair picked out with light flecks of wool. Most of the open-work straws are of horsehair; usually they are hand-woven in the milliners' workrooms, or crocheted with a lace design, or even knitted.

Ornamental Stitching.

Stitching is a favourite method of ornamenting a plain hat, whether it is of felt or shantung, and on some of the pliable straws a deep pleat is put down the centre of the back of the crown to the edge of the brim.

Another novel idea is to roll the edge of a wide piece of ribbon and then use the roll as a hat band, while the unrolled part of the ribbon lies flat on the brim.

On plain straw or felt hats original bands of two different leathers of contrasting colours are used, which gives just the necessary touch of elaboration.

Shantung, jersey and gros-grain ribbon are among the most interesting of spring and summer materials. Hats have crowns made of separate pieces beautifully moulded to the head. Brims on the cloches are more irregularly shaped than ever, and among the jersey hats are many which are lineal descendants of the American sailor cap, which was so much seen last year.

Most of us think of string as being useful to tie up parcels, but hardly decorative. The milliners have discovered that it makes charming and novel hats of tricot. There seems to be very little which escapes their eagle eyes nowadays.

Short Sleeves.

Paris still leans towards the long over-blouse, which rather suggests a tunic, and for afternoons these are worn beneath three-quarter loose wrap-over coats. Another note in the fashions are the short sleeves. Paris likes elbow sleeves, or those still shorter, and occasionally, the blouses are sleeveless. For afternoon, for instance, a frock will have the elbow-length sleeve, and a good deal of attention is paid to them.

One of the prettiest and most feminine notes this season are the lingerie effects on sombre frocks. They are very slight touches, but they are very original and typical of 1932. Box-pleats still seem to be preferred for day-time, placed fairly low, beneath a hip-yoke, which gives a slim line. But for evening, a fresh line has been introduced. This is a full-length skirt beneath a yoke made of diamond-shaped pieces and usually, with a rather loose bodice, bloused a little, and tied with a narrow sash.

Variety in Full Measure.

Paris has ordained variety in fashion this season—and variety there is, in full measure. But there are several individual fashions which are amazingly popular, all the same, and therefore oustanding. One of these is the trim fitting, usually dented jacket (which may also serve as a blouse) with a slightly flared skirt in a contrasting shade.

Literally hundreds of these ensembles were seen at the opening of Auteuil last week, often of soft wool, and in every possible colour-scheme. Extremely smart was a tobacco brown jacket with a matching hat, and a light beige skirt, and a still more delightful suit was in blue, not quite a royal blue, combined with a shade that was something between rust and tomato. Several shades of blue, or emerald and black, and, of course, black and white, were also popular.

Stockings ranged from dark flesh-coloured tones to beige-grey and elephant, but they were always unobtrusive, and shoes were simple and untrimmed.

The long beige gauntlet glove was a favourite, while handbags were small, often handleless, with beautiful mounts.

For the "After-Forties."

Dressmakers revel in evening gowns for the young and slender, but this season they are thinking of evening gowns for the "after-forties." Paris dressmakers believe that gowns for this period in life should be chosen for their beautiful cut and line, while rich dark colours, and black, white or grey, will give distinction for the evening frock where other shades take it away. Chiffon and lace are two soft fabrics that are ideal for the mature woman's evening gown, or brocade, satin or velvet when a gown with a firm silhouette is desired. All fussiness and knick-nacks should be left aside. Take the all-important matter of the coat for an "after-forty." If it is cloth, choose a material that is smooth and velvet, rather than one that is rough and porous. The waistline should be indicated, not stressed, and all tightness eliminated, and the silhouette of the coat should flow from shoulder to hem. This is a silhouette that any woman of any age can wear. The sleeve should be close-fitting and straight, and banded above the wrist with cloth. Big sleeves add bulk and age to arms.

IN BLACK AND WHITE.

Spring Silhouette.

The skirt of the spring silhouette for the younger generation is fitted to below the hip-line, from which point it hangs straight, but is actually cut circular. The narrowed coat for afternoon is the spring coat for the young and slender. The skirt of this coat wraps closely around the body. Sometimes the sleeves are trimmed with ruffles of the fabric below the elbows, and the collar is a new detail of Paris fashions; for it stands up, framing the head and neck, something like a ruff worn by mediæval damsels. It is split at the back of the neck. You remember that the great Greta Garbo used to wear such collars to set off her particular beauty!

Talks on Many Things.

A Way to Preserve Leather Coats.

DEAR AILEEN,—Those lucky people who took your so sensible advice about providing warm coats for Eastertide must have had occasion to bless your foresight. I am sure that you yourself revelled in your new leather coat, which I very foolishly considered a somewhat unnecessary extravagance! My own holiday shopping was a little previous. I perished enthusiastically for a couple of hours in a new jacket dress, but when my mirror reflected a very blue nose I abandoned my ultra-spring ideas and changed into a soft little frock of blue jersey, which, with myself, I very carefully hid away under the protecting warmth of my old leather coat of many seasons! This coat and I have seen good times together, and now in its somewhat battered old age I am inclined to pay it a lot of attention, so that in all probability it will see service for many a day to come. When its surface becomes frayed I carefully lay it flat again with the smallest possible amount of liquid cement, and, if by catching the coat in the door of the car one of those annoying angular rents appear, I cut a piece of strong linen, larger than the rent, and smear it with liquid cement.

This I slip inside the tear, and work the leather over it with my finger tips until no sign of a joining is visible. In this way my old friend keeps, at least, a most tidy appearance. I passed this tip on to a motor cycling friend of mine, whose coat, as you may imagine, suffers from pernicious rending, and he did a marvellous reconditioning job on his oldest coat. First, heat the liquid cement (which can be bought at any chemist's) either in a saucepan of hot water, or else by placing the bottle near a fire.

Spread it smoothly and thinly, either with its own cork, a small brush, or for very delicate work with your own finger tips. After joining the injured part leave it under a weight to get thoroughly set for a few hours, or, if possible, overnight. After using the cement wash the hands quickly and thoroughly, or else a very ugly, almost fixed, stain will result. So far the most successful liquid cement I have used is coaguline; it is absolutely transparent, and is, therefore, most useful, too, for piecing broken china. I also used it to repair a badly slit driving glove.

Choice of Gloves.

I heard, by the way, that gloves are to be dearer than ever in the near future, so I must take stock of my requirements without delay. Gauntlet gloves are more decorative than ever, and money spent on good gloves is well spent money: cheap gloves are merely an extravagance, and this we can none of us afford. For sports or tweed wear the smartest gauntlet glove has a knitted cuff lining to match the suit with which it is worn. So there is yet another chance of scope for the enthusiastic home knitter! Another knitting attraction is the so popular and so smart little sleeveless sweater just reaching to the waist for wear with summer frocks, in pure white they would be delicious for tennis wear, quick to knit and easy to launder. Sprays of tiny flowers embroidered in gay wools add greatly to the appearance of these little "creations." Indeed, floral embroidery is quite a feature of 1932 decorations, both in silk, linen and wool. The average woman has little time for embroidery, yet if one small piece of work is kept on top, so to speak, it is marvellous how soon it "gets done." An odd half hour spent with an embroidery frame supplies complete rest for a usually whirling brain, and at the same time helps enormously to keep the beauty of the household linen, etc., quite up to standard. Nor is it necessary that the eyes should suffer. This work can be done in good light and bold designs chosen when fine stitching will be quite unnecessary.

Table Linen.

During the week I saw a very charming "Easter egg," composed of a half-dozen set of table mats with oblong centre mat to match. The whole was made from two yards of linen and stranded cotton for the embroidery—an economical, but most acceptable, gift. Although there are many hostesses who prefer the appearance of large tablecloths, yet there is much to be said in favour of individual mats—quite apart from the very real advantage of showing off the polished board—there remains the laundry question. Mats, especially if they are built large enough to take glasses as well as the plate, are so much easier to handle in the washing than large cloths.

One of the prettiest evening frocks that I saw during the holidays was made entirely of lace on a georgette foundation. Both the back and front of this frock were cut in a narrow point, somewhat hidden under a very short [illegible] wrap, which fastened with georgette ties. [illegible] a very useful frock for packing, and [illegible] April is here, we may well begin to [illegible] of "packing up" for summer holidays!—Yours,

MARY.

Banana Biscuits.

Mix together ½lb. flour, ½lb. sugar, and 1½ teaspoonfuls baking powder. Rub in ¼lb. margarine and mix to a stiff paste with an egg. Roll very thin, cut into shapes and bake in a quick oven. Make a cream of 1 banana, 2 oz. melted butter and ½lb. icing sugar, and sandwich two biscuits together with this.

• • • • •

Apricot Mould.

Soak 1 tablespoonful gelatine in ½ cupful of cold milk for 5 minutes. Add this to 1½ cupfuls scalded milk and cook till dissolved in a double saucepan. Beat up the yolks of 2 eggs with ¾ cupful of granulated sugar and add to the milk mixture. Cook for 3 minutes, stirring all the while. Next, remove from the fire, and fold in 2 cupfuls of apricot puree (fruit put through a sieve) and 2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice. Pour into a mould and set aside to get firm.

• • • • •

Minced Meat Recipe.

Use one pound either of beef, pork or veal for four people. Mince the meat together with a shallot, season well. Add four ounces of bread soaked into milk and kneaded with a whole egg. Mix well with the minced meat, roll into balls, dredge with flour and cook in butter. When cooked, add to the juice two spoonfuls of stock and some finely chopped parsley.

• • • • •

Sweet Orange Preserve.

4lb. sweet oranges, 4 pints water, 7lb. sugar.

Pare the oranges, and put the skins in the preserving pan with a sufficient quantity of cold water to cover them, and allow them to boil until quite soft. Change the water once during the process of boiling—that is to say, pour off the water that is in the pan and fill it up with the same quantity of water as you had at first from a boiling kettleful. While the skins are thus softening, clean the fruit by removing the seeds or pips and all refuse, and over this refuse, seeds, etc., pour the 4 pints of water, and allow to stand for a little while. When the skins are sufficiently soft take them out—a small quantity at a time—and cut down into the very finest shreds; the finer the shreds the better the marmalade. Now strain the water—among which the seeds, etc., are steeped—through a hair sieve. Place this water, the cleaned pulp, the skins, and the sugar all together in the preserving pan, and boil for half-an-hour, counting from the time when it boils all over. If two lemons and their weight in sugar are added—the lemons have to be treated exactly as the oranges were—the flavour of the marmalade is greatly improved: no additional water is needed for the lemons.

• • • • •

Apple Sauce.

Apple Sauce—Stew till tender 1lb. apples. When cooked, beat to a pulp, add a piece of butter and a little sugar.

Mock Pork.

Soak ½-lb. haricot beans overnight. Chop two large onions finely, put beans and onions into a saucepan. Just cover with water and simmer slowly. When done, turn into a bowl and mash. Add 2 ounces margarine, ¼-lb. bread-crumbs, a dash of pepper and salt and one tablespoonful of sage. Bind with one egg, well beaten, and half-teacupful milk. Make into a thick roll anl bake till a nice brown.

• • • • •

A Salad Recipe.

Allow a banana for each person. Peel them and lay on lettuce leaves in a glass dish. Garnish with a few grapes, two divided oranges and a few prunes. Sprinkle with sugar and a chopped walnut and cover with a dressing of two yolks of eggs, a gill of salad oil and a little vinegar and salt.

• • • • •

Date Tart.

Line a tin or plate with good, short pastry, and spread thickly with the following mixture:—Stone a box of dates and put them into a pan with two tablespoonfuls of water and two tablespoonfuls of lemon, orange or grape fruit juice. When soft, remove from fire, mash well and add a few chopped nuts. After spreading on the pastry, cover neatly with a lattice-work of pastry. Bake for ¾-hour.

Batter Pudding.

Make a batter the same as for Yorkshire pudding, about a quart, using two eggs, one pint of milk, and a gill of warm water. Sprinkle in a dessertspoonful of coarse oatmeal and stand aside. Boil, drain and chop one large or two smaller onions; season well with salt, pepper, and well-rubbed dry sage, thyme, and marjoram if liked. Add half a breakfast cup of fine bread crumbs, and chop all together. Stir this mixture into the batter and bake in dripping tin (dripping must be at blue smoke heat) about half an hour or rather more without turning. Cut in small squares, and serve with good gravy. The pudding should be half an inch in thickness and rather soft

Mat Corners.

When small rugs and mats turn up at the corners they can be persuaded to lie flat and neat by stitching a piece of stout covered millinery wire along the edge for several inches round each corner.

She replied: "Please, sir, do you know you are wearing socks of two different colours?"

DUBLIN GAS COMPANY.

A PROSPEROUS HALF-YEAR.

Mr. Francis J. Dickens presided at the ordinary half-yearly meeting of the stockholders in the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company yesterday in the offices, D'Olier street, Dublin.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report of the directors for the past half-year, which showed a profit on the revenue account of £72,653, said that the sales of gas continued to maintain a steady progress, and showed an increase of no less than 4½ per cent. over the corresponding half-year. The quantity of gas sold in 1931 exceeded that of 1924 by 61½ per cent., which was due to some extent to the expansion of the city and suburbs. The gas industry always claimed that gas could hold its own against any fair competition, and their continued progress was proof that in Dublin this claim was fully warranted. During the past six months the company supplied 1,445 cookers, 2,155 fires and radiators, 380 geysers and boilers, and many other gas appliances, including a number of large, special installations for some of their principal consumers. Their sales of gas for public lighting, although they showed an increase, were not what they should be. Gas for public lighting, he asserted, both from the point of view of economy and efficiency, was the best means of illuminating the streets. The mid-day cooking load was very heavy, and demanded a large output of gas within the space of about two hours, which necessitated improving their storage accommodation, and accordingly a new gas-holder will eventually appear at Sir John Rogerson's quay.

RATEABLE VALUATION.

The Chairman, proceeding, said that at last he was in a position to record some progress in the matter of their rateable valuation, and there was every likelihood of an agreed settlement at a figure which would be somewhat less onerous than the increased valuation as fixed by the Commissioner, although the reduction obtained was inadequate.

THE ACCOUNTS.

Turning to the accounts, he said that the wages at the works were up by about £1,000; they merely reflected the increased output. Repairs of works showed an increase of £12,000. The cost of distribution of gas was down by £4,800, mostly on account of reduced expenditure on stoves. Rents, rates and taxes were less by £2,000, which was almost fully accounted for by the reduction in rates. The sales of gas showed a net increase of £10,500, and rental of meters and stoves £2,600. Residuals showed a decrease, coke being down by £1,500 and tar by £4,000. Miscellaneous sales showed an increase of £1,900, and the total receipts £11,185, but as the total expenditure was greater by £8,032, the balance to be carried to profit and loss account was larger by £3,153, at £72,653, which he felt sure the stockholders would agree was a satisfactory result of their half-year's working. (Hear, hear.) After deducting from this balance of revenue profit, interest on Debenture stock, interest on temporary loans and income tax, and, adding the balance of £36,204 brought from last account, there remained the sum of £95,688, of which the maximum statutory dividend recommended would absorb £59,165, and the carry forward would be increased by £319 at £36,523. The funds of the company were increased by £11,100, and their bank overdraft and liabilities to tradesmen by £53,500. As against this, however, investments were increased by £18,700, and the balance of the capital account was up by £52,600. In conclusion, he said that he had no hesitation in stating as his considered opinion that the position of the company was sound from every point of view, and that the prospects continued to be bright.

Mr. Butler seconded the motion, and the report and balance sheet were adopted.

Mr. J. J. Maguire said that the report was a very satisfactory one, and that the increasing business was highly gratifying.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Newbigging, a resolution was passed ordering the payment of a dividend of £7 12s. 6d. per cent. per annum (less income tax) for the half-year, to be payable on and after April 9th.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. W. H. Davies, Mr. Francis C. Butler, Mr. J. MacVeigh, and Mr. William Newbigging were re-elected directors of the company.

Alderman Dr. Myles Keogh was re-appointed stockholders' auditor.

Mr. Hubbard Clark moved a vote of thanks to the directors and staff for the successful conduct of the business for the past six months.

Mr. Maguire seconded, and the vote was passed.

The Chairman and Mr. Grey (secretary) briefly replied.

The Rev. Canon P. C. Duncan was instituted rector of Clonleigh parish by the Bishop of Derry.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

The Nuances of Japanese : Skerryravell : The Odd Paper.
Ballycotton's Big Fish : April Meteors : Queer Birds.

The Odd Paper.

What a vast accumulation of papers a desk acquires in a short time! The obvious solution of the problem is, I suppose, to have a steady system of filing; but most of us receive from time to time many documents that do not seem of enough importance for filing, and yet have some strange quality about them which saves them from the waste-paper basket. The most remarkable thing about this kind of paper, I have noticed, is that, when once it has been saved from the waste-paper basket, it seems to bear a charmed life. It seems to me that men are more prone to keep articles of little value than women. I have known many men who would buy or store up all kinds of odds and ends in the hope that they might come in useful some day. Women, being more tidy of mind, I think, are better able to separate the wheat from the chaff.

Sharks and Whales.

A correspondent writes:—

The recent report of sharks in Ardmore Bay is not so surprising as many people seem to think. It was early in March two years ago, so far as I can remember, that a shark some twenty feet in length and about twelve in girth made its way up the Blackwater. It swam up the river for some three or four miles as far as Ballynatray, where it was shot by the son of the present owner, Captain Holroyde-Smith. As it was making for the sea it became entangled in the nets of the local salmon boats in the harbour, and was beached on the rocks near the lighthouse.

March, of course, is unusually early for these unwelcome visitors. Although, I believe, they are not man-eaters, they do a considerable amount of damage to the fishing. During the War it was nothing unusual to see a triangular fin cutting through the waters round the south coast. Whales, too, are regular visitors, and many older inhabitants of the little seaside resort of Ballycotton still remember the "school" of whales which was driven there by the local fishermen. Ballycotton is, of course, famous among deep-sea fishermen, and holds the "record" in size for many deep sea fish caught on rod and line. Perhaps, the most unusual of all fish to these waters was the tunny which was trapped in the salmon nets in Youghal Harbour about the year 1906.

The Japanese Language.

An American friend who was seized with the desire to study the Irish language—but regretfully abandoned it as too difficult—thought that she would try Japanese instead. She found a kindly amateur teacher in the city where she lives, and the net result of the new venture is that she has gone back to Irish. For one thing, she discovered after infinite toil that the language used by a man in Japan and that used by a woman are entirely different; and, as her teacher was a man, she came to the conclusion that it was not getting her very far, since etiquette forbade her to use the phrases he taught her, harmless though they seemed.

During her short study of the language she was deeply impressed by the ideographs, among which the picture of a woman under a roof signifies "peace," and three women together mean the word "noise." Even the word for a horse has four legs. A book of so-called colloquial phrases was a delusion and a snare. "Does your dicky bird sing?" was one of them, and "It snows in Lapland all the year round." At last the world-be linguist announced that she must give up, and her teacher was regretful. "It is too pity," he said sadly, "I get such kick of it."

Skerries.

The spring lamb is on the table (writes a correspondent), but for most of us not yet the spring potatoes. Antrim's special pride, I believe, are skerries. These potatoes were an imported stock, tried out first in Ireland at a spot called Skerryravell, whence they took their name and gained their reputation for doing well under the most unfavourable conditions. The name alludes to the rocky nature of the land in the locality, and the townland was nick-named by its Scottish settlers the "scare the devil." One Nicholas Crummelin, a philanthropic gentleman of Huguenot stock, did make an attempt to develop the locality about a century ago, providing some funds and aiding would-be planters. When, however, some years after the inception of his scheme, it was suggested in a local council that a memorial to the benefactor should be set up, the promoters of the idea were somewhat discomfited when an interpellator urged that the memorial must then be to the shopkeepers of Ballymena; for they had kept the planters for two years for nothing but bad debts.

The Lyrids.

The Lyrids form the most noteworthy meteor shower in April. They begin to make their appearance shortly after the middle of the month, and reach their greatest frequency some four of five days later. Their radiant is near the bright star Vega, in the constellation Lyra, which can be seen in the north-eastern sky before midnight. The neighbouring constellations, Virgo and Boötes, also occasionally furnish conspicuous meteors in this month. In the early part of April there are one or two showers of note. On the morning of the 1st there is a large maximum near 6.30 which occurs too late to be observed here, but other maxima occur later on the night of the same day at 10.20 and 12.40. The next most important date is the night of April 8th, when a large maximum occurs on April 9th at 1.30 a.m. This is followed by a secondary maximum on the 10th at 10.20 p.m., and on the 15th at 1.30 a.m.

One of the largest showers of the month takes place on the night of the 16th, its greatest period of activity falling between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. on the following morning. A secondary maximum on the 19th at 9.30 p.m. occurs too early to be fully visible. The Lyrid meteor shower falls on the night of the 21st, with a maximum on April 22nd at 2.40 a.m. There are secondary showers on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th, with maxima chiefly between 10.30 p.m. and midnight. April 30th is also distinguished by a meteoric maximum at 10.30 p.m.

Queer Birds.

I was interested to see that the collection of stuffed birds which Lord Rothschild is sending from his residence at Tring Park to the New York Museum contained specimens of the dodo and the moa, two well-known cross-word puzzle favourites. The dodo was a kind of large goose, with yellow wings, while the moa, which belonged to New Zealand, was a wingless ostrich-like bird, some twelve feet high, and laid an egg about the size and shape of a Rugby football. Another specimen in this collection which should be useful to cross-word manufacturers is the moho, a richly-coloured bird which once inhabited the Sandwich Islands. Inadvertently I found myself examining the list in search of a specimen of the roc. It was not there.

CHARITY MATINEE AT THE GAIETY THEATRE.

Great interest is being taken in a matinée, which has been organised by Miss Ethné Lawrence and Miss Dorothy Snea, in aid of the Soldiers', Sailors' and Airmen's Families' Association, of which Lady HolmPatrick is the President. At this matinée, which will take place on Thursday, 7th April, at 2.30 p.m., a fairy play, entitled "What's Become of the Fairies?" will be presented by Miss Lawrence and Miss Snea and their pupils, among whom are Misses Mida O'Brien, Hazel Ellis, Darinka Durley, Marie Hegney, Beatrice Lawrence, Hilda Allberry, and a large number of children, whose ages range from two years upwards.

In it there will be an old-time Harlequinade, with Columbine, Harlequin, Joey the Clown, etc., and all its attendant fun and frolic, which has been devised by Mr. Lionel Cranfield, Secretary of the Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

At the monthly meeting of the Irish Gardeners' Association and Benevolent Society, Ltd., held on Wednesday in the Red Bank Restaurant, Dublin—Mr. J. W. Stringer, President, in the chair—a very interesting and instructive paper on "The Chrysanthemum" was read by Mr. P. McCarthy, Terenure. All the details of successful cultivation of this popular winter flower were explained by Mr. McCarthy, who is one of our most prominent cultivators, and in the discussion which followed his remarks much useful information was elicited.

The Secretary (Mr. M. P. Rowan) announced that at the next monthly meeting Dr. P. O'Connor, B.Sc., Keeper of the Natural History Museum, Dublin, would deliver a lecture on "Conditions of Health and Disease in the Garden."

The Burbidge Memorial Horticultural Library, now replete with standard works on every subject connected with the science and art of gardening, was officially opened, Mr. Thomas Shaw being appointed hon. librarian.

It was decided that the annual excursion of the members, which is usually made to some celebrated nursery or garden of outstanding attractiveness, will this year take the form of a visit to the Cork Exhibition. It was also announced that members are permitted to bring their friends to all social functions held under the auspices of the society.

Arrested In Bootle.

Man Who Failed to Comply With Court Order.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

DUNDALK, Thursday.

A YOUNG man, David Cohen, who was arrested in Bootle, Liverpool, and brought to Dundalk under escort, was charged at Dundalk District Court with failure to comply with a Court order last October.

Inspector Tobin stated that Cohen had been arrested in Dublin in October on a charge of issuing worthless cheques at Blackrock, County Louth. When charged in Dundalk he paid some of the money, and on promising to pay the balance he was allowed out. He had failed to keep his promise, and had only sent two sums of ten shillings.

Cohen stated that he had been ill, and had also lost money in Dublin. He had been promised work immediately.

Inspector Tobin said that the only evidence of money having been lost was the production by Cohen of a cheque for £60, signed by somebody called Byrne. That cheque was drawn on a Newry bank, but was marked "Account closed."

Cohen said that Byrne was a cattle dealer whom he knew, and to whom he had advanced £30 on a deal.

District Justice Goff ordered Cohen a month's imprisonment, stating that he had not taken advantage of the leniency with which he had been treated when he was last before the Court.

NEW STEAMER ON L.M.S. SERVICE.

SPECIALLY BUILT FOR CATTLE TRADE.

The new London, Midland and Scottish Railway turbine cargo steamer Slieve More left the North Wall, Dublin, on her maiden trip to Holyhead yesterday. She is commanded by Captain J. Bulmer.

The Slieve More was built by Messrs. Wm. Denny and Brothers, Ltd., Dumbarton, under the supervision of Captain J. W. Harris, the L.M.S. Chief Marine Superintendent, to the requirements of the Board of Trade and the British and Irish Departments of Agriculture. The vessel is intended for the conveyance of cargo and cattle, and special provision has been made to accommodate a limited number of passengers. It will carry some 630 head of cattle, and has 14 permanent horse stalls and 24 sheep pens on the poop deck. Temporary horse stalls will be available as needed for a further 250 horses. The cattle spaces are electrically ventilated, and all fitments are designed to safeguard the livestock in transit.

The vessel, which is electrically lighted throughout, and in addition has two 3-ton electric cranes, has a speed of 18½ knots, a length of 309 feet 6 inches, and a gross tonnage of 1,397.

There were many visitors to the ship during the course of the morning, all of whom expressed appreciation of the facilities provided by the new steamer. Members of the cattle trade who had attended the Dublin Cattle Market travelled by her to Holyhead, the visitors being received on board previous to sailing by the Irish Traffic Manager, the Chief Marine Superintendent, and the Assistant Chief Goods Manager (London).

IRELAND IN BERLIN.

HONOUR FOR DR. BINCHY.

Dr. D. Binchy, Free State Minister to the German Republic, has left Berlin, having retired from his post. He has gone to Southern Germany to complete some studies, and will not return to Dublin for some little time.

Before he left Berlin Dr. Binchy was received in private audience by President Hindenburg, who presented him with an autographed portrait in a large silver frame. Dr. Binchy also was presented by the German Government with a valuable painting as a souvenir of his stay in Berlin, and President Hindenburg decorated him with the Order of the Red Cross (First Class).

Pending the appointment of Dr. Binchy's successor, Mr. Macauley, Secretary to the Free State Legation, will act as Chargé d'Affaires in Berlin. With Professor Dr. Macken he represented the Free State at the Goethe commemorations at Weimar, and on behalf of his Government laid a large wreath of laurels on the poet's grave.

A "TUCK" SHOP AFLOAT.

Amid scenes of wild enthusiasm 900 boys and 200 girls, drawn from forty-nine secondary schools all over England, have left Liverpool in the White Star liner Doric for a scholars' "wonder cruise" to Gibraltar, North Africa and Portugal. The total list of passengers is 1,400 which includes 300 parents and teachers. This constitutes the largest floating school ever known.

The new delight of a "tuck" shop afloat is a feature of the cruise, and one of the lounges in the Doric has been converted for this purpose. Some of the goods which will be on sale to the scholars in the "tuck" shop consist of 800 gallons of icecream, 40,000 icecream wafers, 20,000 icecream cones, 14,000 bottles of minerals, 14,000 apples, 14,000 oranges, one ton of chocolates and one ton of toffee.

PAYING "SWEEP" WINNERS

Yesterday at 10 o'clock the paying out of moneys to winners in the Irish Sweepstake on the Grand National began. Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Co., auditors and accountants, Dublin, have charge of the arrangements, and are issuing the prizes in the form of bank drafts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Assuming, for argument's sake, (a) that, whether or not the Oath is compulsory under the Treaty, the Government have a mandate to abolish it, (b) that no breach of honour is involved and that our reputation for good faith will not suffer, there remains what seems to me a fatal objection to the course of action announced by President de Valera. I refer to the fact that the procedure adopted threatens to cause our expulsion from the British Commonwealth of Nations without the country having had an opportunity to consider or decide whether it is to our advantage to leave the Commonwealth or not. This is a question of such vital importance that it surely deserves to be examined fully on its merits, if at all possible.

We can, I think, assume that, if the Statute of Westminster had existed prior to the Treaty, the Oath would not have taken its present form. On the other hand, some sort of declaration of allegiance seems indispensable for Parliaments within the British Commonwealth, in view of the position of the Crown as the main visible link between them. Would not the constructive thing be to substitute for the Oath some such declaration as the following?—

> "I solemnly promise fidelity to the Constitution of the Irish Free State, as by law established, and to H.M. King George V., his heirs and successors by law, during the continuance of the Irish Free State's adherence to, and membership of, the group of nations forming the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The Government could do this without violating their election pledge to abolish the Oath, and, as I believe, without picking an unnecessary quarrel with the British.

It is, moreover, well worth consideration whether a law ought not to be passed providing for a referendum in the not too distant future—say, next January—on the question of staying in or going out of the Commonwealth. In case the decision should be to stay in, the referendum could be repeated in ten years' time, and so on every ten years, as long as we stay in the Commonwealth. With these recurring opportunities available for breaking the British connection, no case will remain for extra-legal military organisations.

I hope the above suggestions may be regarded as constructive. They are certainly intended as such.—Yours, etc.,

FRANK MACDERMOT.

THE DRUMM BATTERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Drumm battery has again become the subject of discussion, and it is right that it should be so, because the matter of the State development of this battery is one which requires investigation. . . .

More than two years ago I was asked by clients of mine would it not be possible to get a Drumm battery for their electric lighting plants? The questions were seriously put, and so I have considered it my duty to keep a record of the published information about the Drumm battery. I have read about it in many publications from the Diospoireachtai Pairliminte of Dail Eireann to the latest article in Nature. As far as I can ascertain from all the official and unofficial statements there has not been anything yet published which would definitely indicate that the Drumm battery has a reasonable prospect of being a commercial success. The battery has now had four years of intensive development under what should have been the most favourable possible financial and technical conditions.

Shortly after Dr. Drumm approached Mr. McGilligan, then Minister for Industry and Commerce, near the end of the year 1927, a sum of £5,000 was made available for research and development, and subsequently larger sums, exceeding £50,000, have been made available from State funds. The work on the battery has apparently been mainly carried out in the laboratories and workshops of University College, Dublin, under the guidance of qualified technical people, including notably Professor Nolan, of University College, Dublin. Yet, notwithstanding the generous financial facilities and the technical assistance, there are in this year 1932 doubts as to whether the battery is going to prove a commercial success; and I think that the taxpayer who has paid for the four years' work is now entitled to have an impartial investigation made into the capabilities of the battery. . . .

Two statements have been issued recently by those connected with the battery. The first statement is that by Professor A. J. Allmand, F.R.S., in Nature, in which he gives some notes on "the main electrochemical features" of the battery. The second statement is that recently issued by Professor J. J. Nolan, of University College, Dublin. These statements are of considerable chemical and physical interest, but they are not in any way informative from the engineering or commercial standpoint; and, in fact, the disclosure of the low specific capacity in a battery specially designed for suburban traction seems to suggest that the commercial possibilities of the battery are extremely limited. Professor Allmand has been associated with the battery since January, 1930, and his partial statement now is extremely cautious; while it may be favourable (as Professor Nolan thinks) from a physical standpoint, it is not favourable from the engineering and commercial standpoint. Further, Professor Nolan states that "the existing battery . . . is . . . . doing what is beyond the power of any type or design of existing lead or nickel iron battery." According to a circular on alkaline storage batteries, issued by the U.S. Bureau of Standards, a certain type of commercial cell when worked under recommended conditions will give a performance apparently identical with that described by Professor Allmand. The cell mentioned can be purchased with some years' guarantee. Professor Allmand's article contains a statement about "the elimination of the expense of an all-night charge," which seems to show that he is not looking on the development of the battery from the point of view originally put forward.

The Drumm battery was boosted as being the missing link between the Shannon scheme and electric traction on Irish railways. To bring the demand on the Shannon into line with the famous demand curves given in the original Siemens-Schuckert report a large night load is necessary, and quite a suitable thing would be the charging of a number of large traction batteries. The idea is a sound one, but Professor Allmand seems to consider it otherwise. In this regard it would be interesting to know whether anything can be added to the statement made by Mr. McGilligan in June, 1928, when he said, referring to the cost of electrifying the main line between Dublin and Cork: "If this invention works out successfully, giving the best estimate, we can make the cost, multiplying it by two, and it can be carried out for less than £80,000."

Can the existing Drumm battery or any immediately possible Drumm battery hope to compete with existing alkaline batteries or with Diesel engines for main-line traction? . . . It is high time that some impartial statement by competent engineering and commercial investigators was issued, so as to assure the taxpayer that his money has not been unwisely spent. If the new Government automatically become directors in the Drumm Battery Company, it is to be hoped that they will appoint a committee of inquiry from the shareholders, who are the taxpayers, with such technical assistance as may be necessary.—Yours, etc.,

A CUP FINAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—All true lovers of the game will read with regret the announcement that it is probable that the Free State Football Association will hold the final of the Free State Cup on a Sunday. A large number of "Soccer" enthusiasts cannot conscientiously attend Sunday games. Some clubs will not permit their players to play on Sundays. In fact, one junior league under the Association's jurisdiction has a rule (approved by the Football Association), under which players or clubs in the league incur automatic suspension if they play on Sundays. The final of the national trophy cannot be truly national if it is a cause of offence to a large body of supporters. Surely, the members of the Football Association cannot believe that they are acting in the best interests of the game in erecting a barrier against those who are, and have always been, amongst its staunchest supporters.

Persistence in this policy will probably mean that large numbers of the best class of supporters and clubs will transfer their allegiance to other codes.—Yours, etc.,

MUSICAL COMEDY PROGRAMME.

A MUSICAL comedy programme, with Fay Carroll (soprano), Brian Gaye (baritone), the Revue Chorus and the B.B.C. Theatre Orchestra, conducted by Leslie Woodgate, is a feature of the Daventry National programme this evening. The items will include excerpts from "My Lady Molly" (Sidney Jones), "Rose of Araby" (Merlin Morgan), "The Beauty Stone" (Sullivan) and "The Fountain of Youth" (Alfred Reynolds).

The broadcast commences at eight o'clock, and will provide an hour of excellent entertainment. At 9.35 the same station will broadcast "To Any Husband," which has been adapted by Anne Parlane from the short story, "A Wildgoose Chase," by A. E. Coppard. The play is produced by Peter Cresswell. The North Regional programme is almost entirely a musical one, the chief attraction being a ballad concert, to which Millicent Webster (pianoforte), Constance Felpts (contralto) and Roland Townend (violoncello) will contribute. From Belfast a programme of Percy Fletcher's music will be played by the Radio Quartet at four o'clock, and Dublin is offering an attraction in a surprise item at 8.30.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITA

Belfast's Rapid Growth : Over Thirteen Hu
Vacant Houses : Portrush Bid for Fishin
Industry : Men the Best Patrons of Northern Music.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

WE are free from political worries in the North at present, Parliament being on holiday, and the difficulties which for some time existed between the Government on the one side, and the Churches and the Orange Order on the other, have been amicably settled. The only outstanding controversial question is that which concerns temperance reform, with its allied problem of betting, and even that is being given a much-needed rest. There are anxious eyes, however, watching the trend of events south of the border.

The Unionist leaders are troubled, and make no secret of their belief that difficult times lie ahead. All sections of the community who have the country's welfare at heart hope that good counsels will find acceptance, and that Southern Ireland will go on its way prospering, as it has done for the past few years. It is recognised here that the prosperity of one part of the country must reflect favourably upon the other, and that the border can have but very little influence on progress or decay.

In family and business interests—to mention no loftier ideal—the relationships between North and South are so closely interwoven that the pulse of Ireland virtually beats for all in good or bad times. There are splendid prospects for prosperity with the great events which are due to take place both in Northern Ireland and the Free State during the coming summer months.

AN EXPANDING CITY.

The Northern capital is extending its borders in all directions. The frequent 'bus services to rural areas make it possible for business people to live in the country amid ideal surroundings, and it has even been found necessary to build new churches on the outskirts to accommodate new congregations. Within recent years the growth of the population of Belfast has been remarkable. In 1926, the census returns gave the figures as 415,152, and it is now estimated by the Corporation Finance Committee that there has been an increase of 63,000 since that date.

Of course, many people came from the Free State, for one reason or another, and the depression in agriculture forced crowds of labourers into the city in search of work, or in the hope of getting the "dole," which they do not receive as workers on the land. Whatever the cause, the city is rapidly growing in size and numbers.

A glance at the official figures dealing with dwelling-houses in the city is interesting. The total number given is over 97,000, and of these 1,310 are vacant. The empty ratings include houses of all sizes, namely—not exceeding £8 valuation, 170; exceeding £8 and not over £20, the number is 467; and there are 242 vacant houses of over £20 valuation. At present 431 new houses are either ready for occupation or in course of erection.

THE FISHING INDUSTRY.

Everything possible is being done to make Portrush an important centre for the fishery industry. The Northern Ireland Ministry of Commerce is interested in the scheme, and from observations made by its experts it seems that the herring feeding-beds are slowly moving towards the North of Ireland, naturally bringing in their wake the shoals of fish. The local Urban District Council is giving assistance, and the railway company is also cooperating by providing adequate transit facilities.

Several trawlers operating off the coast were expected at Portrush on Tuesday, but they did not put in an appearance, much to the disappointment of buyers. The herring fishing will soon be starting, and it is understood that about fifty fishing smacks will use the port, where, of course, the salting and packing of the fish for export will be carried out. Portrush is an ideal harbour for the purpose, with fine, wide quays and large weather-proof sheds, and the Inspector of Fisheries, who has taken an active part in the development of the project, believes that the establishment of a regular fish market there will be a valuable asset to the industries of Northern Ireland. At present Ulster merchants obtain their supplies from Hull or Aberdeen.

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS.

Belfast has got back to work after the Easter holidays, and the only regret is that more favourable weather was not experienced during the short period of rest from labour. We had a mixture of sunshine and rain, with the showers predominating, and "hikers," of whom there was an unusually large number, had a rather unhappy time in that respect; for the mornings were fine, and most of them set out badly equipped for the wet afternoons. The countryside, however, was at its best, with gorse in bloom and the hawthorn trees clothed w scented sprays, while the fre spring was in the air.

The Stranmillis Controversy Revived.

eachers Attack Northern Government.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEWRY, Thursday.

DISCUSSION took place to-day at the concluding session of the Congress of the Ulster Teachers' Union Warrenpoint Town Hall in regard to cal representation on the Committee of nmillis Training College. Mr. Gordon presided.

J. J. V. Boyd, B.A. (Hillsborough) osed:—

"That we view with alarm, and we irect the attention of the public to the bject surrender of the Government in ceding to the reactionary demands of e Joint Committee of the Protestant hurches for special representation of e Churches, as such, on the Committee Management of Stranmillis College; nd it is incomprehensible that such a mand should have the support of such democratic body like the Orange rder. It is incredible that an institution built and maintained out of public nds, and preparing students for a blic service, should be handed over the management of a Committee, a rge section of whose members will not responsible to any public authority."

Boyd said the evils which the teachers esied would arise from the passing of ct of 1930: the great danger to the ratic control of education had now to pass, and the forces of reaction had phed for the moment.

said for the moment, because as sure ults were obtained by subterranean ds, so surely would retribution follow, the full light of day was let in on The parrot cry: "The Bible is in ," succeeded in 1930 in raising powerluences on the side of the Protestant who raised the cry. That cry was mouflage, intended to mask the real behind it—which was the re of denominations and clerical in the schools. The Govern was stampeded into giving way, e clerical party won the first battle, ving done so they proceeded to attack st stronghold by their demand for control of Stranmillis Training e. The Government, in face of the s of the Minister of Education and of had the real interests of education at ad now surrendered the last fort, and irect representation to the Protestant es as such on the Committee of Management of the College. Regional Committees had been virtually reduced to the position of pay clerks, and by their latest concession the Government had given a large share in the control of the Training College to a body of men who were responsible to nobody, not even to the heads of their own Churches.

Already there were signs that the public were beginning to open their eyes and clear them of the dust which had been so cunningly and insidiously thrown into them by the clerical party. Was it for the good of religion that even legitimate ends should be obtained by unjustifiable means? He advised the union to start an intensive campaign to enlighten public opinion, and especially the members of the Orange Order, on the matter.

IN 1832.

Mr. Smyth, in seconding, said that in 1832 a similar attempt was made to establish a system of national education for the whole of the children of Ireland, and the same objections were urged then as to-day about the irreligious character of the Act, with the result that, instead of having large and well-ventilated schools built for the children, the country was dotted over with small insanitary buildings, where denominational education was imparted under anything but ideal conditions. He invited the audience to think what the history of their country might have been had the Act of 1832 been allowed to operate. The opposition then, as now, was dictated by the Church that it was an irreligious and ungodly thing. The Orange Order was invoked, and gun clubs were established all over Ulster for the protection of the Bible. The same situation prevailed to-day: the Bible was in no danger, and the whole outcry was mere flapdoodle.

Mr. C. Wilson, Belfast, said that the surrender of the Government was inexplicable, but it was caused by the persistent sapping and undermining of a militant section of the clerical party, who had now carried the last position held by the Government—that of democratic control of the Training College.

Mr. Robert Judge, Poyntzpass, said that the whole movement had been engineered by Mr. Corkey. Not so many years ago the Orange Order were not deemed worthy of admittance to a Presbyterian church for a 12th July anniversary Service.

"We are more clerical-ridden in the North," he added, "than the people of the South, about whom they had talked for years about being priest-ridden, and he could only say that the Government of to-day had not the back-bone of a jelly fish."

The resolution was carried with acclamation.

Fixing 'Bus Fares.

Northern Tribunal's Findings.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

THE Northern Ireland 'Bus Fares Tribunal gave its decision to-day on the application by three 'bus-owning concerns for a revision of 'bus fares on a considerable number of routes in Northern Ireland.

Sir Lynden Macassey, the chairman, said that it was proposed to establish two zones for fares. There would be a basic charge of 1½d. per mile within an eight-mile zone of Belfast. Single fares on the area outside this circle would be 1¼d. per mile, and the corresponding return also would be 1¼d. per mile, less 20 per cent. (or one penny).

"The Tribunal recognise," said the Chairman, "that although their decision will result in reductions in certain areas, there will be substantial increases in others." The Tribunal expresses sympathy with those who have to pay the higher fares, but the present conditions could not possibly continue.

WORKERS' TICKETS.

Workers' weekly tickets, if issued, will be calculated at six times the ordinary single fare which would be chargeable on the basis of a uniform charge of 1¼d. per mile for the whole journey both inside and outside the aforesaid circle, and the minimum charge for a worker's weekly ticket will be 2s. 6d.

Monthly tickets, if issued, shall be calculated at twenty-four times the ordinary single fare which would be chargeable on the basis of a uniform charge of 1¼d. per mile for the whole journey both inside and outside the aforesaid circle, and the minimum charge for a monthly ticket will be 10s.

All ordinary tickets for children under 14 years of age will be issued at half the price of the corresponding ordinary ticket for adults. Monthly tickets may be issued to such children at half price, but not a workers' weekly ticket. Workers' weekly tickets and also monthly tickets may be issued at two-thirds of the price of such tickets to persons of the age of 14 and upwards, but not more than 21 years of age. Women's monthly tickets may be issued at two-thirds of the price of a monthly ticket.

Fire Fighting With Rain Water.

Dublin Brigade Man's Lucky Presence.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONGFORD, Thursday.

A FIRE broke out at 7.30 this morning in the drapery premises of Mr. John Brown, Drumlish, County Longford. Sergeant Crawley, of the Civic Guards, and his available men, with a large number of residents, were on the scene immediately that the alarm was raised. The only water supply adjacent, two barrels of rain water in the yard of the premises, was quickly exhausted, and a spring well in the village was resorted to, the water being carried in buckets.

Mr. Harry O'Neill, of the Dublin Fire Brigade, who was on a visit to friends, arriving on the scene, quickly marshalled the assistance available, and the progress of the fire was soon arrested. All the available water barrels in the village, filled by the recent rainfall, were brought into use.

Sergeant Crawley paid tribute to Mr. O'Neill. Had he not been there considerable damage would have been done, he said, and they could have done very little had the fire occurred a week ago after the drought, for it would have been impossible to procure water in time to get the flames under control, with the result that many houses in that area would have been endangered.

Immediate application will be made to the Board of Health to provide a pump in the village.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

HEAVY SELLING OF UTILITIES: WEAK CLOSE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Thursday.

The Stock Exchange opened steady. With a lack of any business news of a definitely constructive character, the market is likely to remain dull and narrow, according to opinion in brokerage circles. While the determination of Congress to balance the Budget is a fundamentally reassuring factor, it does not provide a basis for activity on either side. Enforcement by the Stock Exchange to-morrow of its new lending regulations is not expected to prove a major influence.

Renewed selling of some Utility issues subsequently imparted an easier tone to the market and the early gains were soon lost, with net declines of a point or so becoming fairly numerous. Industrial shares moved within more narrow limits, but were inclined to weaken. Later in the session a pronounced weakness developed, though trading was rather dull. The decline was ascribed partly to the non-appearance of any appreciable volume of short covering, which disappointed some quarters, who apparently anticipated a sharp squeeze in connection with the new lending regulations.

The heaviness of Utilities spread to Rails, and general declines resulted.

The approval by the House of Representatives of the proposal to levy a tax of one-fourth of one per cent. on all stock transactions found Wall street in a gloomy frame of mind. A number of prominent brokers maintained that their operations would be severely curtailed owing to the increase in costs, and expressed the opinion that the market would become a thin and erratic affair. Declines extended in brisker trading towards the end of the session and the market closed weak

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Thursday.

Trading on the grain market to-day was light and without important feature, all cereals fluctuating within narrow limits. Some scattered profit-taking was inspired by the easier tendency of the Stock market, but pressure was light, while reports of a fair export business helped values to maintain their levels. In subsequent dealings prices eased owing to scattered liquidation. Buying by North-Western interests, which was believed to be against sales of flour, caused wheat values to improve, while unfavourable crop news, together with reports of a lack of moisture and the expectation of bullish private estimates, constituted other helpful features. The market subsequently reacted owing to considerable liquidation of the May option. Limited support and an absence of improvement in the cash situation caused recessions in maize, while the market also moved in unison with wheat. Rye prices early advanced on light offerings, but later receded in sympathy with the downward movement in wheat. Oats declined owing to selling by commission houses.

COUNTY KERRY BULL SHOW.

POOR SHOW OF LOCAL BREED.

FOUNDATION CATTLE NOT IMPROVING.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

TRALEE, Thursday.

THERE was a slight increase in entries for the ninth annual show of bulls, under the auspices of the County Kerry Branch of the Irish Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Society, at Tralee, to-day. Entries totalled sixty, and it was remarkable that of these only three were of pure-bred Kerry bulls—a very small display of this breed in its native habitat. Dairy bulls, calved between 1st September, 1930, and 28th February, 1931, were average in class. There was no outstanding animal in the class, and no premiums awarded. Animals lacked quality and depth.

Dairy bulls calved on or after 1st March, 1931, included three very useful prize-winners, which were awarded premiums under the Department's scheme for the improvement of dairy cattle. Aberdeen-Angus were a very moderate lot, and no premium was awarded. In this class two were rejected for licence under the Live Stock Trading Act. The bulls shown were a plain, rough lot. Only two Herefords were exhibited, and both were awarded premiums. They were very short-legged, thick bulls, with plenty of depth and substance, well marked, and in striking contrast to Aberdeen-Angus. Non-pedigree bulls of shorthorn type calved between 1st September, 1930, and 28th February, 1931, comprised some good specimens, and the first prize winner was awarded the gold medal for the best bull in the show. In the class for non-pedigree bulls of the same type calved on or after 1st March, 1931, the first prize winner was the only useful bull shown.

While some useful shorthorn bulls were shown, the quality on the average left a good deal to be desired. The reason probably is that in this county of late years many premium bulls of Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford breeds have been purchased by farmers and mated with good shorthorn cows that previously were mated with shorthorn bulls. The consequence is that, although the resultant progeny is suitable for production of store stock, it is not, in the opinion of judges, likely to improve the foundation cattle of the country.

The silver cup (held by Terence Carmody) for the best bull in the first two classes was won by Patrick O'Connor, of Keylod, Newtownsandes, with Dairyman's Choice.

The gold medal for the best shorthorn was won by John McKenna, of Castlegregory, with Dairy Prince; and the silver medal for the best Aberdeen-Angus by William O'Connell, of Causeway, with Garl of Kilmoyley.

Mr. Timothy Sullivan, Crookstown, County Cork, judged all classes except the Kerry Class, which was judged by Mr. J. Murphy, Tralee. The Department was represented by Messrs. R. Lynch and P. O'Keeffe.

THE AWARDS.

Dairy Bulls, calved between 1st September, 1930, and 28th February, 1931—1, Richard Blennerhassett, Beaufort—Shilla Banker; 2, John Fuller, Abbeydorney—Lucky Lad; 3, Richard O'Gorman, Ballybar—Dairy Chief.

Dairy Bulls, calved on or after 1st March, 1931—1, Patrick O'Connor, Newtownsandes—Dairyman's Choice; 2, Patrick D. Kennedy, Newtownsandes—Eamster's Clinker; 3, Timothy Fitzgerald, Abbeydorney—Ensign.

Pure-Bred Aberdeen-Angus Bulls, calved on or after 1st September, 1930—1, William O'Connell, Causeway—Garl of Kilmoyley; 2, Jeremiah Dillon, Tralee—Jester of Money; 3, Elizabeth A. Magill, Beaufort—Janitor of Churchtown.

Pure-Bred Kerry Bulls—1, G. A. Foley, Killorglin—Anglont Joy; 2, Gerald A. Foley—Anglont Emperor.

Non-Pedigree Bulls, of Shorthorn type, calved between 1st September, 1930, and 28th February, 1931—1, John McKenna, Castlegregory—Dairy Prince; 2, Patrick Lyne, Killorglin—Coolroe Boy; 3, Thomas O'Sullivan, Beaufort—Beaufort Dandy.

Non-Pedigree Bulls, of Shorthorn type, calved on or after 1st March, 1931—1, Michael O'Connor, Newtownsandes—Roan Boy; 2, Patrick O'Brien, Milltown—Sweepstake; 3, Richard O'Gorman, Ballybar—Sailor Boy.

THE SALES.

The sales following the show were slow and disappointing; prices had dropped considerably since the last annual sale.

Patrick O'Connor's Dairyman's Choice, which won the Silver Cup, was the only premium bull sold; it fetched thirty-four guineas, the purchaser being Christopher Driscoll, of Lerrig. Edmond Harty, Causeway, sold an Aberdeen-Angus for 27 guineas, and Maurice Barry, of Odorney, paid 25½ guineas for William O'Connell's Garl of Kilmoyley; 27½ guineas were paid by David Scollard, of Milltown, for John McKenna's Dairy Prince. A shorthorn was sold to John Clifford, Ballybunion, for 17 guineas, and bulls were sold at 16 guineas to Martin Hegarty, Ballyduhig, and Daniel Daly, Farranfore; at 15 guineas to Denis McMahon; at 14 guineas to John Griffin (Currans) and Mrs. Murphy (Cahirciveen); and at 13½ guineas, which was the lowest price at the sales, to Patrick Leene, Ballinclemessig.

THE DARTMOOR MUTINY.

MEN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Frederick John Richardson, one of the convicts charged at Princetown in connection with disturbances at Dartmoor Prison on January 24th, was discharged during yesterday's hearing, the magistrates holding that there was not sufficient evidence to make it necessary for him to answer the charge.

One of the convicts, James Del Mar, who is suffering from influenza, was committed to Devon Assizes.

Of the other thirty convicts, twenty-nine were committed for trial at Devon Assizes, and, like Del Mar, they reserved their defence.

Thousands of ladies keep a box of Martin's Pills in the house. Those who use them recommend them; hence their enormous sale. Price 5s. Sold by all Chemists and Stores; or post proprietors, Martin, Chemist, Sou —(Advt.)

The Fiscal Year.

The Exchequers of Great Britain, the Free State and Northern Ireland have issued their statements of expenditure and revenue for the financial year which ended yesterday. In all three cases the results call for sober satisfaction. The utmost credit is due to Great Britain, who has contrived to balance her Budget with a technical surplus of £364,000. This surplus is short of Viscount Snowden's estimated surplus by £1,157,000; but the shortage results from certain supplementary votes which were passed by the House of Commons since the emergency Budget of last September was issued. The actual condition of Britain's finances is far better than one might assume from the technical figure. To balance the Budget Mr. Neville Chamberlain was entitled to appropriate up to £23,000,000 from the dollar exchange account; in fact, he drew on it only to the extent of £12,750,000. Britain, therefore, is left not merely with a Budget surplus of £364,000, but with a revenue reserve of £10,250,000. The real significance of these figures is patent when we recollect that last year the Treasury was faced with an estimated deficit of no less than £74,679,000. New taxation accounts for the recovery to an extent of £40,500,000; economies in State departments have secured £22,000,000, and the savings on debt amortisation have filled the difference of £13,700,000. Thus Britain, who last year was heading, as it seemed, for inevitable bankruptcy, finds herself comfortably solvent.

Not less encouraging is the condition of Free State finance. Mr. Ernest Blythe made no secret last year of the fact that the balancing of Southern Ireland's Budget was likely to be a severe task. The result of November's emergency Budget has justified his expectations to the full. Free State finances show a deficit, but it is the smallest deficit for some years past—standing at £639,234, as compared with £901,388 for the previous year, and with £877,000 for 1929-30. Exchequer bills to the amount of £1,000,000 represent the temporary borrowings outstanding, and Mr. MacEntee, the new Minister for Finance, begins his career with a balance of £1,739,725 in the Exchequer. In 1931-32, as compared with 1930-31, both revenue and expenditure have shown an increase. The revenue figures are illuminating. Receipts from Customs increased by £805,000; from income tax by £416,000; from excess profits by £18,000; from the Post Office by £60,000; and from certain miscellaneous sources by a total of £821,614. On the other hand, there were several noteworthy declines. Revenue from Excise diminished by £855,000; from estate duty by £50,000; from corporation taxes by £42,000; from stamps by £9,000, and from sundry sources, including land, by £31,391. Last year's new imposts have had their desired effect; they have contrived to turn a large potential deficit into a virtual surplus.

All three States, therefore—for Northern Ireland's returns reveal a surplus of £11,648—can face the coming year with a high measure of confidence. The Free State's task during the past twelve months was no extraordinary one. Britain, however, had been reduced to a condition of administrative penury that was without parallel in her history, and a colossal effort was demanded. How her citizens responded to the demand is manifest from the figures which we publish to-day. Her Government, by its imposition of emergency taxes and by its insistence on economies, pointed the path to recovery; but only the co-operation and enthusiasm of the citizens enabled her to reach the goal. Without the pressure of an exceptional need, so happy a result never could have been obtained; Britain was forced to balance her Budget because her national and international credit depended on its balancing. We hope that the Free State never will be faced with so urgent and overwhelming a necessity. Her Exchequer figures show that her position is still secure, that she may embark upon a normal fiscal year. Mr. MacEntee's predecessor has left him with as clear a field as any Free State Finance Minister has surveyed since the State came into being. If Mr. de Valera's Government keeps its promises, the demands upon the State purse during the coming year will be heavy. If it can satisfy them without any inequitable shifting of burdens, and can reach March, 1933, with a balance sheet as satisfactory as that which we review, it will have proved its talent for administration.

Unrest in Spain.

The Duke of Wellington once said that Spain was the only country where two and two did not make four, and, if he were alive to-day, he would see no reason to alter his view. On Tuesday Señor Azaña, the Prime Minister, addressing a congress of his party, the Republican Action, reviewed the political situation. He denied the charges of dictatorial propensities that had been levelled against the Cabinet. He would never betray the Republic, he said, but "his responsibility obliged him to severity in the interests of the nation." It was a mistake, declared the Premier, to think that, because the shackles of the Spaniards had been knocked off and the nation set free, it would go to destruction. Yet, almost daily, reports from the provinces, especially Andalusia and the Estremadura, tell of anarchical outbreaks among the peasantry who seldom offended thus under Alfonso XIII. The property-owners are robbed by excited rabbles who invade private estates, and pitched battles with the Civil Guards are not unusual. This sudden passage to agrarian rioting can be traced without much difficulty to the intensive activities of disruptive organisations, whose teachings have made easy headway with a peasantry that has been stripped of its traditional allegiance to the Crown and has been shaken in its respect for the Church. At least six of these organisations are at work, and in every case they are the violent enemies of the social and economic structure. Some of them at one time were related to political parties, but since the revolution they have fallen under the ban of the Republican Government, whose new responsibilities have caused it to view its old friends in a less favourable light. The General Workers' Union is somewhat of an exception; for it is represented in the Cortes by the Socialist Parliamentary Party and professes a pious hatred of Moscow. In its behaviour, however, it differs little from the others. Spain's prospects are not rosy, but they need not cause despair. The chief difficulty in the way of improvement is the fact that the Republic has not yet produced a single statesman to whom a rather distracted people can turn in their alarm. Some venerable Hindenburg or a compelling Mussolini could save the situation with comparative ease. No such person exists in the country, and even the volatile Spaniards have scarce had time to remember that the experienced and courageous Don Alfonso is an exile of their own making.

The Diamond Industry.

Yesterday was the date fixed for the closing down of South Africa's diamond mines. This, as a South African Correspondent of The Times reminds us, is no new incident in the history of the great De Beers Company, and it need not alarm the shareholders. The company closed all, or most, of its mines during the American crisis of 1908, during the early part of the Great War, and throughout the post-War crisis which began in 1921. In seasons of deep and prolonged depression there is scant demand for diamonds; the market quickly becomes over-stocked and prices fall. It is estimated that, at present low prices, the Diamond Corporation and the producers of the Union have in hands some £20,000,000 of rough diamonds, excluding stocks owned by the South African Government. To-day, however, the De Beers Company is faced with a problem which did not aggravate former crises of the industry. Its prosperity has depended hitherto on the strict regulation of sales through one channel and at one price; and this method not only requires great financial resources, but is apt to result in the accumulation of enormous stocks. Now the De Beers monopoly of production and control is disturbed by the rivalry of the South African Government, which is working the new and rich diggings of Namaqualand, and rejects the sacred principle of sale through one channel at one price. Recently the company proposed an agreement for the restriction of output, and the Government's refusal has been followed by the company's decision to close its mines. Some 2,500 white workers and a very large number of natives will lose their employment. There is no room for internecine competition in the diamond industry, and a declaration of war by the South African Government against De Beers must end in equal disaster for both. The writer in The Times suggests a conference of all producing countries, which will hammer out a system of world quotas. Then the industry may continue to flourish—until some chemist discovers Nature's secret and produces real diamonds at three-halfpence apiece.

Ethiopian Slaves.

When Ethiopia was admitted to the League of Nations in 1923 she undertook to abolish slavery within her borders. Progress, however, has been slow, and last year in an estimated total population of some 10,000,000 there were about 2,000,000 slaves. On Tuesday an official pronouncement by the Emperor Ras Tafari showed that the pledge had not been forgotten. "Ethiopia," His Majesty declared, "will be without a slave in fifteen years." The problem before the Government is very difficult, because not only is the writ of Addis Ababa of varying significance in the territories of the different Rases, but the slaves themselves, in many cases, manifest little or no anxiety to be emancipated. Well cared for and esteemed by their owners, they enjoy a lot little worse in essentials than was that of the domestic servant in early Victorian England. The casting of a fifth of the total population upon its own resources, with all the economic dislocations which such action must involve, is a task which might appal any Government. In the United States, which, when the slaves in the South were freed, was a far better organised country than Ethiopia, this social revolution produced a crop of formidable problems. The Emperor thus is wise to allow himself fifteen years for the fulfilment of his country's promise to the League. His plan appears to be based on the edict of March, 1924, which in forty-five clauses provides for gradual emancipation, beginning with the children born of slaves. A decree of the previous year, confirming an ancient law, makes slave-trading an offence punishable by death.

"VEILED THREATS."

SIR BASIL BROOKE, BART., AND THE I.R.A.

Speaking at a reunion of Maguiresbridge Orange Lodge, Sir Basil Brooke, Bart., M.P., C.B.E., said that the domestic quarrel between the Free State and Britain did not concern them very much. What did concern them was the veiled threats of the Republican Army, which a short time ago had been suppressed as an illegal organisation, but had now come out into the open and declared that one of its aims was the establishment of a Republic for the thirty-two counties of Ireland. Threats of coercion or attempts at coercion would have no more effect upon the Ulster people now than they had in the past.

He reiterated his charge against Mr. Cahir Healy, M.P., and Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., that these gentlemen had not done anything practical to help in the removal of the tax upon maize, and thus assist the farmers.

FLOUR-MILLING INDUSTRY.

POSITION OF FREE STATE MILLS.

INFORMAL TALK WITH MINISTER.

THE Free State Minister for Industry and Commerce (Mr. Sean Lemass) and Lord Glenavy, Secretary to the Department of Industry and Commerce, had an informal talk at Government Buildings, Dublin, yesterday, with representatives of the Free State flour-milling industry. It is understood that those who met the Minister were Mr. J. V. Rank, controller of the flour combine in the Free State, and Mr. J. P. Goodbody, a former member of the Senate. No particulars of the conversation have been disclosed.

The visit, it is thought, may have some reference to statements made at the last sitting of the Senate in regard to the milling industry and certain steps which the Government may take to relieve what some regard as an unusual position.

EFFICIENCY OF MILLS.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs (Senator Connolly), speaking of the milling position in the Senate on 22nd March, said that "the late Minister for Industry and Commerce had spoken of the efficiency of the Irish flour mills from the point of view of output and mass production.

"There was an efficiency in flour-milling which left the workers unemployed for the best part of the year," he said, and he went on: "This 'Fordisation,' as he would call it, of the flour-milling and other industries was not the ideal of the Government nor what they were aiming at. They hoped to aim at decentralisation of industry, so that employment would be given to various centres of the country. Personally, he would rather see three hundred factories, employing four to five hands apiece, scattered over the State, producing at ten per cent. more cost, than to see one mass production factory on the quays of Dublin."

SENATOR JOHNSON'S VIEW.

Senator Johnson, on the sitting of the Senate, asserted that quite recently there had been a further development of the entry of international capitalism upon the domestic economy of this country.

"Certain other flour mills," he said, "had come within the control of the British organisation. To what extent Irish mills owned by Messrs. Rank and their allies had been attached to the British combination of millers he did not know, but it was true to say that it was not only a question of flour mills, but, to a considerable extent, the control of the wheat supply was now in the hands of the combination.

"He had no doubt that it was the intention of the Ministers to examine this question, but he wanted to make an appeal that it was not merely desirable that Irish milling should be retained for the Irish mills, but that the new idea embodied in the memorandum of the Irish millers, read before the Dail some two or three years ago, should be the basis of any reorganisation of the Irish milling industry."

SHIPPING RATE "CUTS."

OPPOSING COMPANIES COME INTO LINE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRUSSELS, Thursday.

The North Atlantic Shipping Conference concluded its session at 5.30 p.m. to-day, after unanimously agreeing to the 20 per cent. cut in passenger rates proposed by the United States Line.

The reduction will therefore be put into force immediately by all the lines engaged in the passenger service between Europe and North America.

It will apply to first, cabin, second, and tourist class fares. Third class fares, which are already very low, will only be cut by ten per cent.

No decision was reached regarding the proposals for a more rational arrangement of sailing dates, but delegates will meet in London about the middle of April to discuss the matter further.

The reductions were strenuously opposed by several of the delegates, including those of the French and German companies, when the conference met yesterday, and no decision had been achieved when it adjourned for the night. An entirely new complexion was put on the negotiations to-day, however, by the fact that the United States, the Cunard, the White Star and other lines had already ordered cuts in their rates. The remaining companies then came into line.

The reductions mean in the case of the Hamburg-America and the Norddeutscher-Lloyd lines an annual loss of revenue amounting to millions of marks (states a Berlin report), and German shipping experts are not convinced that the reductions will result in an increase of passenger traffic which will make good this loss of revenue.

The Compagnie Générale Transatlantique (according to a Paris message) considers the cuts inopportune, but is giving way in view of the wishes of the majority of the companies.

MOLLISON RETURNING BY LINER.

CORRELATING DATA ON WESTERN AIR ROUTE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CAPE TOWN, Thursday.

Mr. Mollison told Reuter's Correspondent this evening that he had definitely decided to sail for home to-morrow.

"I've just made up my mind to take to-morrow's mail boat," he said, "because I want to get back to attend to important business, and the voyage will enable me to recover my strength.

"Seventeen days on the boat will enable me to correlate and put in order information about the trip which I have collected. I must write up all the data while it is still fresh in my mind, and this can be done in a fortnight."

LAST night the Free State Department of Finance issued the Exchequer figures for the financial year ended March 31, 1932.

Normal revenue and expenditure show a deficit of £639,234, as com- red with a deficit of £901,388 in 1930-31.

Three years' deficits are:—

	1931-32 £	1930-31 £	1929-30 £
REVENUE	25,496,419	24,365,196	24,173,000

When the Budget was introduced an increased duty on sound films d extra estate duty were imposed, and from these Mr. Blythe expected get £38,000. In order to meet the additional agricultural grant of 750,000 he put a new duty on petrol, to realise £450,000, and an in- eased duty on sugar, from which he expected to get £315,000, making a tal of £765,000. He balanced his Budget, showing a small surplus of 17,000.

In November a supplementary Budget was introduced in order to meet expected deficit of £900,000, arising principally from the large decrease Excise duties. To meet this expected deficit, he put 6d. on the income x and 4d. on petrol, and from these extra taxes he estimated that he ould bring in this year at least £450,000. Subsequently a tariff was aced on butter, and from this the Customs benefited to a certain extent.

Total receipts are £101,358 lower than the total issues. The tem- rary borrowings outstanding at the 31st March, 1932, consisted of ,000,000 in Exchequer bills, and the balance in the Exchequer amounted £1,739,725, an apparent surplus on the year's operations of £739,725. mpared with 1930-31, revenue shows an increase of £1,131,223 and ex- nditure is £869,069 more.

The following are the comparative figures of revenue and expendi- re:—

SHANNON AND ELECTRICITY SUPPLY.

The total cost of the Shannon undertaking up to last night was £5,764,930. This year there has been issued for electricity supply the sum of £1,007,000. The amount issued up to 1930-31 was £2,013,386, making a total of £2,020,386.

EXCHEQUER BALANCE.

CLOSING DAYS' TURNOVER.

The turnover of funds in the closing days of the year was again very heavy.

Ordinary expenditure amounted to £3,028,944. Ways and means advances amounting to £100,000 were paid off; £1,300 more for the Shannon, and £55,000 for Savings Certificates paid off, making a total of £3,196,244.

The total income was £1,589,107. This left £1,609,137 to be taken from the Exchequer balance, reducing that figure to £1,739,725, compared with £1,841,083 brought in on April 1, 1931.

The full Exchequer statement will be found on another page.

NO FORD DIVIDEND.

LOSSES SUSTAINED IN IRELAND.

DISAPPOINTING YEAR'S RESULTS.

NO dividend is to be paid for 1931 by the Ford Motor Co., Ltd. In the two previous years 10 per cent. was paid. The total profits last year were £412,143, compared with £1,054,286 in 1930; but against this is charged £101,014 for depreciation, £14,699 for obsolescence, £13,268 for directors' fees, etc., and £217,416 for income tax, leaving £65,745, against a comparable figure of £790,353 in the previous twelve months.

A sum of £170,329 has been reserved for loss on exchange on dollar debts (which may not be suffered, as payment has been postponed for an indefinite period), and £29,905 is provided for loss on trading operations outside the British Isles for the period December, 1928, to December 31st, 1931, with the result that the amount brought in (£506,360) is reduced to £371,871. Excepting in the cases of Germany and Finland, all the European associated companies have earned substantial profits during 1931.

THE BALANCE SHEET.

In the balance sheet cash is up from £894,001 to £1,055,150, and British Government securities appear at £377,949 These have since been sold at a higher figure. Debtors total £513,263, against £331,108, and stocks and work in hands stands at £766,686, compared with £775,838. There is a short date deposit, with a subsidiary of £1,024,473. Land, buildings, etc., are up from £2,031,856 to £3,856,155, and machinery and plant from £443,431 to £1,070,548. Investments in and loans to subsidiaries total £4,273,178.

Capital reserve has been increased by £3,058,189 in respect of premiums on shares issued during the year, and by the sum of £288,532 arising from realised profits and the transfer of the Italian interests to the holding company which was formed during 1930 to acquire the investments in affiliated companies in which public issues had been made.

The increased value of shares in the Italian company consists of profits earned between December 7, 1928, and the date of transfer retained in the business and consideration paid for the trading concession granted.

BRITISH BUDGET BALANCED.

A SURPLUS OF £364,000.

The British financial year ended with a surplus of £364,000.

Revenue totalled £770,963,000, and

Expenditure £770,599,000.

THE IRISH COMPANY.

Capital reserve has been reduced by the value of the shareholding in Henry Ford and Son, Ltd., Ireland, amounting to £224,263, which has been written off to cover accrued losses sustained by that company, and to provide against possible depreciation in the value of the investment. In addition a special provision of £1,000,000 has been made against the possibility of depreciation in the value of the loan to the Irish company.

After making the above provisions the capital reserve has been increased during the year by £1,998,199, and now stands at £2,897,720.

The position of the holding company is stated to be satisfactory. The profit from the date of its formation to December 31, 1931, amounts to £274,183, and the value of its investments, as indicated by the current market quotations, is in excess of the book values.

The company's activities have now been transferred from Manchester to Dagenham. The meeting will be held at Dagenham on April 8 at 11 a.m.

COMMENT OF THE "FINANCIAL NEWS."

In a leading article the Financial News says:—The steady fall in the price of Ford shares during recent months has shown that the market was expecting a big reduction in profits. Whether they expected quite so big a reduction as the accounts show remains to be seen.

The report explains that the shareholding has been written off to cover accrued losses sustained by the Irish subsidiary, but does not say how great the possibility is of the £1,000,000 being required to cover losses on the advance to that company. It would be interesting to hear more on that at the meeting.

Another point which may surprise investors is that though the issue last year was thought to be for £2,000,000 nominal, and though permission to deal was actually given for an additional 2,000,000 shares the capital has only risen by £1,539,451 nominal. Presumably the full 2,000,000 shares were not applied for and the issue was not underwritten.

Though the 1931 results must modify the high hopes which were once held of the Ford Company they should not necessarily be taken to imply that the venture is a failure. The depression has caught it at a very inconvenient moment and the restrictions on international trade must seriously have interfered with the scheme for centralised European production at Dagenham on which the whole conception is based. When, and if, those restrictions are removed the scheme will prove itself. What the result of the test will be it would be vain to attempt predicting.

BRITAIN'S LATEST DEADLY WEAPON.

References to British developments in armour-piercing projectiles were made by Sir Robert Hadfield, Bart., Chairman of Messrs. Hadfields, Ltd., at the annual meeting of the company in Sheffield yesterday. Under recent patents of Major Clerke and himself the company had been enabled to produce an important type of armour-piercing projectile, and England stood at the top of the tree in this respect.

With the new type of shell it had been found practicable to perforate hard-faced armour of the best quality and over one foot in thickness, inclined 30 degrees, at a velocity equivalent to a range of no less than 15,000 yards—about ten miles. The time occupied in perforating the armour plate was just about one-two-hundredth of a second.

FREE STATE TO GO TO OTTAWA.

FOR IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

CANADIAN INVITATION ACCEPTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

OTTAWA, Thursday.

THE important announcement that the date of the assembling of the Imperial Economic Conference here will be July 21st, instead of July 18th, as previously proposed, was made by Mr. Bennett, the Prime Minister, in the Dominion House of Commons this afternoon.

The postponement, he said, had been made to suit the convenience of the sailing dates of representatives from other parts of the Empire who were to attend the Conference.

Mr. Bennett then went on to contradict, in the most emphatic terms, a report, which had appeared in a local newspaper, that the Irish Free State representatives might not be invited to the Ottawa Conference.

On the contrary, he said, they had already accepted the Dominion Government's invitation.

He then read the Free State Government's cable, accepting the invitation to attend the Conference, and thanking the Dominion for its hospitality.

The cable also signified the agreement of the Irish Free State to the change in the date of the Conference.

Mr. Bennett, in making his statement with reference to the Irish Free State, emphasised his desire "to repair the injury done to this country" by the false report.

PROPOSED NEW TRAFFIC WAY.

DUBLIN, NORTH TO SOUTH.

RATEPAYERS TAKE ACTION.

PLANS for a main traffic artery through Dublin from North to South were discussed at a meeting of the South Great George's street and Camden street Ratepayers' Associations, presided over by Mr. Henry Dockrell, T.D., at the Central Hotel, Dublin, yesterday. The meeting had been called with the express purpose of supporting Councillor Doyle's motion on the agenda for the meeting of the Dublin Corporation, to be held on Monday next, to ascertain the cost of widening George's street, Redmond's hill and Wexford street, and to have this scheme included, if possible, in the forthcoming estimates.

Mr. Dockrell said that it was a long time since a scheme was first put before the Dublin Corporation for the construction of a central thoroughfare which would help to solve Dublin's traffic problem and to facilitate the flow of vehicles from Rathmines, Rathgar and the "hinterlands," to the North side of the city. The Guards, he continued, have already stated that O'Connell Bridge is loaded to its fullest extent, and that a second bridge on the West side of O'Connell Bridge is necessary. It is an essential law of town-planning that any bridge across a river shall have traffic arteries at each end. Under this law Dublin was like Drumcollogher—it has only one street, O'Connell street, continuing into Westmoreland street. The Dublin Corporation, he said, had considered the question of widening George's street, but the matter had been referred to a sub-committee which had been unable to complete its inquiries in time for the estimates.

SNOW AT STRABANE.

Snow fell at Strabane yesterday. Following recent heavy rains, large areas of land in North Tyrone and East Donegal are under water.

SCHEME EXPLAINED.

The scheme which the meeting supported would include the widening of Wexford street, Redmond's Hill, and South Great George's street. This would bring the traffic in a steady stream to Dame street, where it would cross to Temple lane, which would also have to be widened. About half way down this thoroughfare the road way would bear to the right and cut through several buildings in Temple lane and Temple Bar, and continue to Wellington quay, where a new bridge, bearing to the right in a straight line with the newly constructed roadway, would be built to replace the Metal Bridge, and this would give on to Lower Liffey street, and so form a main artery to North Dublin. Most of the property which it was proposed to remove in the widening scheme and in the cutting of a new road from Temple lane to Wellington quay was of low value, because it was off the main traffic route. With the coming of vehicular traffic to these quarters shops and offices would be built, with a resulting benefit to trade.

THE LORD MAYOR'S VIEW.

Mr. Bolger (Messrs. Bolger Bros., South Great George's street) said he had interviewed the Lord Mayor, who had stated that if the scheme meant an increase in rates he could not give it his consideration. He felt that he would like to have fuller information on the subject.

It was agreed that Mr. Bolger should have a further interview with the Lord Mayor to discuss the project.

The suggested removal of the railings of Trinity College was referred to by Mr. Dockrell, who said that even if this were done it would necessitate the widening of Grafton street, and even Harcourt street, at a much greater cost than the scheme which had been discussed. At the present time the Corporation were engaged on what he thought was a wise scheme of road-widening in Rathmines, but this would only result in bringing the traffic to the city in a faster stream, causing more congestion in the "bottle-necks" unless a traffic artery, such as had been proposed, was constructed.

The meeting fully approved of the scheme, and adjourned pending the Corporation's decision on Councillor Coyle's motion.

CREDITS FOR FARMERS.

CORK'S BIG SCHEME EXPLAINED.

DEPUTATION TO BANKS' REPRESENTATIVES.

PARTICULARS of the plan for the effective strengthening of the agricultural industry were given to the representatives of the Irish Banks' Standing Committee yesterday.

The scheme, which, if put into operation, will involve the raising of a £5,000,000 loan from Irish banks, was outlined yesterday by the Irish Times Agricultural Correspondent.

It is the intention (says our Agricultural Correspondent) to ask the Government to negotiate with the Irish Banks' Standing Committee for a sum of £5,000,000, to be held by the banks and lent to farmers for productive purposes, the money to be distributed between the banks in the same proportion as their Consolidated Note issue, and the scheme to be administered through the local branches in the Free State.

Mr. Henry J. Millar, Governor of the Bank of Ireland, and Sir Lingard Goulding, Bart., who represented the Irish Banks' Standing Committee, heard the case put forward by the deputation, which included Mr. E. J. Cussen, the Secretary of the Cork Farmers' Union, and Mr. D. P. Forde, barrister-at-law. It is understood that the scheme will be considered by the Banks' Standing Committee, who will have the plan outlined to them by Mr. Millar and Sir Lingard Goulding.

The scheme has been discussed and approved by the Cork Farmers' Union, who deputed Mr. Cussen to prepare the draft to be submitted to the Banks' Standing Committee.

QUESTION OF CREDIT.

The deputation discussed the question of credit, and especially "frozen" credit. It was pointed out that £5,000,000 were needed to work the proposition. This money would be held for farmers needing assistance, and loans would be granted to them at a rate not exceeding three per cent. The Government, it was suggested, should make up the difference between the three per cent. and the five per cent. rates charged by the banks for money on loan. The annual charge to the State, if this proposition were accepted by the Dail, would, it is calculated, be about £100,000 per annum.

The scheme, it was urged, should be worked through local branch offices of the banks, since local managers, having knowledge of conditions, would be best able to judge of the character and possible enterprise of intending borrowers.

The banks, it was further suggested, should hold themselves responsible for the loan of the money, and be responsible for the taking of reasonable steps to collect interest and sinking fund. The deputation urged that the scheme, if operated, would be of considerably greater assistance to farmers than any other form of assistance that could be devised, especially in this time of depression. Unless some such plan as this was put into operation, the deputation went on, agriculture would suffer very much owing to the pronounced scarcity of money among farmers. The security for the loans would, it was pointed out, be the same as the security for the land annuities, which were first mortgages on the farms.

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

A STUPENDOUS EFFORT.

The Times observes in an editorial article to-day:—The revenue returns issued last night show that the Budget has balanced, with a small surplus of £364,000, which is rather more than a million short of the revised estimate made by Lord Snowden in his emergency Budget last autumn. But the actual results of the year's finance are, in effect, distinctly better than the figure shown in the balance sheet, seeing that the surplus has been arrived at after appropriating only £12,750,000 from the dollar exchange reserve, instead of the £23,000,000 contemplated in autumn.

On the expenditure side also the actual results of the year, which has just closed, have been better than at one time seemed probable; for the total amount issued on Supply votes has proved to be £12,500,000 less than the revised estimate. This fact, though it is good so far as it goes, does not, however, indicate so great an effort for economy as might at first sight be supposed, because the estimated expenditure was based upon an unemployment figure which was not, in fact, attained. Viewed as a whole, the results of the Budget are highly gratifying, not because they show any great and salutary reduction in the total volume of public expenditure, but because they have proved that the country has been able by a very special effort to support the gigantic burden placed upon it rather more easily than might have been expected.

MORE DRASTIC ECONOMIES NEEDED.

Restraint in the matter of self-congratulation upon the results of the financial year should be followed by equal restraint in calculating the chances of a relief from taxation in 1932-33. Mr. Chamberlain has already issued in general terms a warning against exaggerated expectations, and it is not too early to guess at some of the considerations which he must have in mind. Enough hard and practical facts are already known to make it clear that limitation upon the amount of relief will not be dictated by political considerations. It may be that events later in the year will allow a more favourable view to be taken of the future. If the Ottawa Conference succeeds, if the problems of reparations and of War debts can be settled, if the financial rehabilitation of the distressed countries of Europe can be set on foot, if troubles in the great markets of the East can be ended, if, in short, conditions of trade all over the world, and particularly of British trade, improve, then the prospects of the national finances will improve also.

No doubt, the forthcoming Budget can, and should, contribute materially to this work of restoration and reconstruction, but at the moment it would be the wiser part to realise that there are still too many "ifs" to make a gamble upon a return of prosperity excusable in a country which has too often seen similar gambles reflected in its Budget with disastrous results. In the meantime one grim fact has already been established; the level of public expenditure remains intolerably high, and the taxpayer, after the stupendous effort he has just made, has the right to demand much more drastic economies than those which the National Government has so far succeeded in making.

MR. DE VALERA'S ANSWER TO-DAY.

EXECUTIVE EXPECTED TO GIVE APPROVAL.

NOTE MAY BE SENT TO LONDON TO-NIGHT.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THERE will be a meeting of the Free State Executive Council this afternoon, when the consideration of the draft reply to the British Note with regard to the Oath and the land annuities will be resumed, and, it is hoped, concluded.

The delay which has occurred in sending the reply has, perhaps not unnaturally, given rise to a crop of rumours, some of which suggest that serious conflict of opinion has arisen within the Cabinet. This, I am assured from an authoritative source, is not the case.

It is correct to say that, in their consideration of details and in the form of words to be used, various Ministers have offered suggestions as to alterations and amendments. On the general principles of the reply there is complete unanimity. The original draft has been altered considerably, and it has now been sent back to the officials in order that certain suggestions should be incorporated. In the form in which the reply will be presented to the Council to-day it is likely that it will be finally approved. Its despatch to London either to-night or to-morrow will follow as a matter of course.

The date of publication of the Note is a matter for arrangement between the two Governments. It will be given out simultaneously in London and Dublin.

NEW SCHEME OF TARIFFS.

The announcement of a comprehensive scheme of tariffs as foreshadowed in yesterday's Irish Times, evoked widespread interest yesterday. It is not denied that the imposition of protective duties with a view to fostering home industries is one of the chief planks of the new Government's policy, but whether these will be announced piece-meal, as has already been done in the case of cut flowers and agricultural machinery, appears to be a matter of doubt.

In this connection it is not improbable that fuller information will be given to the public by Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, when he speaks at Longford on next Sunday week.

RESTORATION OF LOCAL BODIES.

As indicated yesterday the Government has in contemplation the early return of popular representation in the case of local governing bodies which were dissolved by the late Government.

The case of the County Kerry Council is on the same basis as Mayo Council, which was mentioned yesterday. There are three Boards of Health—namely, those of Kerry, Galway and Mayo—which will be reconstituted at an early date. There are also the Urban Councils of Ennis, Bray, Howth, Bundoran and Ballyshannon, which are at present controlled by Commissioners. In these cases local elections will take place as soon as arrangements can be made.

A SMALLER DAIL.

Another matter which must be attended to during the present year is the rearrangement of parliamentary representation in the constituencies on the basis of changes in the population. In certain cases, as in Dublin City and County, the population has increased, and consequently an increase in the number of deputies will follow. In at least thirteen constituencies a decrease in population was indicated in the 1926 census, and a loss of one deputy each will follow. This is based on Article 26 of the Constitution. The next Dail to be elected after this year, it is estimated, will number about 140 instead of as at present 153.

FOR DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

Alterations on an extensive scale are at present being carried out at Government Buildings. One of the projects in view is the provision of a reception room for distinguished visitors, which, it is hoped, will be ready for use by the time the Eucharistic Congress comes along in June. Mr. de Valera has found the need of such an apartment, as the President's room, which has been used hitherto for the reception of callers is unsuited for the purpose.

Mr. de Valera also is arranging for sleeping accommodation on occasions when pressure of important business requires his presence to a late hour at Government Buildings.

LABOUR OFFICE AT GENEVA.

While the late Government had decided not to be represented at the forthcoming meeting of the International Labour Office at Geneva, on April 12th, the new Government, it is understood, has reversed that decision, and has decided to be represented. Professor Alfred O'Rahilly will be the Government's representative on the delegation, and the workers' representative will be Mr. Luke J. Duffy, Secretary of the Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks, with Mr. S. P. Campbell, Secretary to the Dublin Typographical Society, as technical adviser.

MR. THOMAS'S POSTPONED RETURN.

Possibly on account of the delay in the despatch of the Irish Free State Government's reply, Mr. J. H. Thomas has postponed his return to London from Broadstairs until to-day.

REQUEST BY IRISH FARMERS' UNION.

TAX ON AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY PARTS.

A request has been made that spare parts of agricultural machinery, on which a tax of 33⅓ per cent. was imposed last week-end, should be admitted free of duty into the Irish Free State until ten years have passed.

The deputation was from the Irish Farmers' Union, and included Messrs. D. P. Forde, A. Brogan, R. A. Butler and E. J. Cussen. They waited on Mr. D. O'Sullivan, of the Department of Industry and Commerce, and informed him that local foundries and firms were not yet able to make the parts to suit agricultural machines at present in use, and the tax would, therefore, be a burden on the farmers, as well as putting them to extreme inconvenience.

BEET GROWERS.

A deputation from the Irish Beet Growers' Association waited on Dr. Ryan, Free State Minister for Agriculture, at Government Buildings, Dublin, yesterday afternoon, and spoke to him about the beet growing industry, prices and distribution of acres under beet crop.

The Minister, who was accompanied by Mr. Meyrick, Secretary to the Department, and Mr. J. H. Hinchcliffe, gave the deputation a sympathetic hearing and said he would give the whole question full consideration.

The Growers' Association was represented by Mr. J. Greene, chairman; Colonel B. J. Fagan, Messrs. W. H. Cobb, J. F. Wright, W. Mullen and J. Donoghue.

OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS IN IRISH.

ROMAN SCRIPT BANNED.

It was announced yesterday that the Free State Executive Council had altered the decision of the former Executive Council, which ordered the use of the Roman script in preference to the Gaelic script in all official documents printed in Irish. The decision of the last Government had created much controversy among teachers of Irish and Irish speakers.

Yesterday, at the annual congress of the Irish National Teachers' Organisation, a resolution was passed calling on those responsible to remove the order requiring the use of Roman script. The Organisation were at that time unaware that their wishes had been complied with by the Executive Council.

LEAGUE COUNCIL SUMMONED.

SERIOUS FINANCIAL SITUATION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Thursday.

The League Council has been convoked for April 12th for the purpose of considering the report of the Financial Committee of the League, which draws attention to the gravity of the present situation and the urgent need of taking measures to remedy it.

FOUR POWERS TO MEET NEXT WEEK.

LONDON PRELIMINARY TO DANUBIAN SCHEME.

The British Foreign Office announced yesterday that the Four-Power Conference between Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, preliminary to the Danubian States' Economic Conference, will take place in London at Britain's invitation in the middle of next week.

The object of the Conference is to draft a letter to the five Danubian States suggesting that they should foregather to discuss a scheme of preferential tariffs.

As M. Tardieu has to be back in Paris next Tuesday (says Reuter's Paris Correspondent), M. Flandin, Minister of Finance, who is accompanying him to London on Sunday, will stay and represent France.

THE POULTRY INDUSTRY.

RAPID STRIDES IN COUNTY CORK.

THE FIRST ANNUAL CONGRESS.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Thursday.

WHAT promises to be the forerunner of an All-Ireland Poultry Congress took place in the Dairy Science Institute, University College, Cork, to-day, when the County Cork Poultry Keepers' Association held their first annual congress, which was largely attended.

OBJECTS OF THE MOVEMENT.

Mr. C. Meaney, President of the Association, in opening the proceedings, said that when started in 1929 the Association had a membership of 314; it was now 1,300. These figures spoke for themselves as indicating the interest which was taken in their work. The objects of the Association were to encourage the breeding and proper management of pure-bred utility poultry, and to secure a market for their poultry and eggs. All poultry-keepers were eligible for membership. Among other things the Society had put on the market, at an economic price, reliable balanced poultry foods.

Councillor F. J. Daly, Lord Mayor of Cork, in welcoming the delegates, said that the people of Cork appreciated the value of the poultry and egg industry, and would do everything possible to help that Society. If presenting a cup would assist their objects in any way, he would be pleased to present one.

Dr. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, in a letter to Mr. Todd, secretary of the County Cork Poultry-keepers' Association, said that he would have liked to attend, to congratulate the Association on the good work done during the past few years. He believed they were developing on the proper lines in organising poultry-keepers, so that they might benefit one another by knowledge acquired and in getting the best possible prices for their products. The Department of Agriculture would continue to give all the help they possibly could in the future, as they had done in the past.

THE POSITION IN CORK.

Discussing "the position of the poultry industry in Cork," Mrs. A. Dillon, county instructress in poultry-keeping, mentioned that in 1926 the total number of poultry in Cork County was 2,873,810, the largest number of fowl kept by any county in the Irish Free State. Until recently the County Cork was not greatly interested in table poultry—apart from turkeys and geese. Concentration was almost entirely on egg production. In the past few years, however, there was a demand for fowls that would make reasonably good table birds, as well as provide a fair number of eggs. Formerly chickens were sold as stores and fattened across the water, where they were sold as Sussex chickens. This trade continues to a large extent, but some dealers have started fattening at home and export the chickens dead.

Exports of eggs from the port of Cork had increased from 5,581 tons in 1913 to 9,769 tons in 1931; and of poultry from 664 tons in 1913 to 1,094 tons in 1931. Most of this produce came from the County Cork itself. As there was no evidence that home consumption had decreased, the increased export trade was attributed mainly to greater production. In 1913, at the egg-laying competition held at the Munster Institute, Miss Dillon pointed out that the average return was 120 eggs per pullet. Over the last ten years it would average about 188, which showed what progress was being made, though the return in the average flock was not quite so high.

Miss Dillon then described how much the Department of Agriculture, through the County Committee of Agriculture, has contributed to the improvement of poultry generally in the county.

Mr. W. O'Callaghan, Lombardstown, in moving a vote of thanks to the lecturer, said that it was due to the poultry instructress that the industry had progressed, but there was still room for development.

THE INDUSTRY IN THE NORTH.

MORE VALUABLE THAN SHIPBUILDING.

Professor G. Scott Robertson, Ministry of Agriculture, Belfast, in opening his lecture on "Poultry Nutrition," said that in the north of Ireland the value of the poultry industry exceeded the whole of the cattle, dairy and pig industry. It was also in excess of the whole output of the shipbuilding industry there.

The lecturer dealt at length with some of the recent experimental work on the nutrition of chickens and laying-birds carried out at the Empire Marketing Board's experimental plant at Hillsborough, Co. Down. The general principle underlying the whole of the work in Northern Ireland is that nutrition plays a far more important part in the growth and development of the birds, on their disease resistance, and on their laying qualities, than is generally realised. All the experimental work has been carried out with White Wyandottes. Every experimental group had free access to alternate grass runs, and oyster shell grit was supplied ad lib. to all birds in every experimental group. It was found at Hillsborough that the best fed birds matured most quickly, and that it was not desirable to slow down the rate of development in the case of pullets which are permitted to mature rapidly.

A vote of thanks to Professor Scott Robertson was passed, on the motion of the Rev. Mr. Pearce Brown, M.A., Kanturk, seconded by Professor Boyle, Faculty of Dairy Science, University College, Cork.

Miss M. Hennerty, Chief Poultry Officer, Department of Agriculture, Dublin, in her lecture on "Selection of Breeding Stock," described the methods of selecting breeding stock with a view to improving the laying qualities of the flock rather than heavy yields from a few outstanding birds.

A vote of thanks was conveyed to Miss Hennerty, on the motion of Mr. William Bland, Leix, seconded by Commander Chearnley, Ballinhassig.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Professor Kearney, Veterinary College, Dublin, in a lecture on "Some Contagious Diseases of Poultry," stated that bacillary white diarrhoea (B.W.D.) was the greatest menace to poultry breeders at present, and great care was needed to prevent its introduction to healthy establishments. In the efforts being made to suppress it by the Department of Agriculture and County Committees of Agriculture, individual poultry-keepers should co-operate, if progress was to be hastened.

Dr. G. Crofts, Clonakilty, proposed, and Mrs. M. MacLysaght, Mallow, seconded, a vote of thanks to the lecturer, which was adopted.

Members of the Committee and the various lecturers lunched at the Victoria Hotel, Cork.

At night a successful dance, organised by the Congress Committee, was held in the Arcadia Ballroom, Cork.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MULLINGAR, Thursday.

An impressive scene was witnessed to-day at noon by an immense concourse of clergy and people, when Most Rev. Dr. Mulvany, Bishop of Meath, officiated at the ceremony of cutting the sod and blessing the site for the new cathedral. The new building, it is estimated, will cost at least £200,000.

Shetlands as Big Air Junction.

U.S. PLANS FOR ARCTIC CIRCLE 'PLANE SERVICE.

WITHIN three years the Shetland Islands may become one of the world's greatest air traffic centres, telegraphs Reuter's Correspondent in Bergen, Norway.

Judge Grimson, of Detroit, representing the Trans-American Airlines Corporation, is now on his way to Norway in connection with the projected Arctic air route linking Europe and America.

After Norway he will visit Iceland, the Shetland Islands and London.

A daily service is being planned each way across the Atlantic, and it is due to start in 1935.

The aeroplanes will fly from Detroit, across Canada and the Hudson Bay to a point in Baffin's Land; thence over Davis Strait to the west coast of Greenland, and so to Reykjavik, in Iceland.

A TWO-DAYS' JOURNEY.

The Iceland Government has recently granted the American Corporation a seventy-five years' concession, under which the latter is authorised to make a base at Reykjavik and to fly over Iceland. From Reykjavik the route from America will proceed to the Faroe Islands, the Shetlands and Norway.

The Shetland Islands will become the junction for the southerly routes to London and Paris.

It is expected that via the Shetlands the Detroit-London air crossing will take only forty-eight hours.

Triple-engined machines will be used, and separate aeroplanes will fly only one of the ten stages into which the route has been divided.

DUN LAOGHAIRE ESTIMATES.

BOROUGH MANAGER'S CONFIDENCE.

THE ratepayers of the Borough of Dun Laoghaire are promised no addition to the amount of rates they paid in the year ended yesterday. Mr. P. J. Hernon, the Borough Manager and Town Clerk, last night issued his estimates of expenditure and receipts for the year ending March 31st, 1933. He calculates that he will be able to carry on the business of the borough with a total municipal rate of 15s. 8d. in the £. This is the same rate as last year.

In issuing the estimates for the service of the financial year ending 31st March, 1933, for the consideration of the Borough Council at a meeting to be held on the 21st of this month, the Borough Manager states:—

SUM REQUIRED.

"The sum demanded by the County Council for the service of the year ending 31st March, 1933, is £46,983 4s. 11d., as compared with £44,982 12s. 10d. last year, representing an increase of £2,000 over last year; and as compared with £42,594 for the year ended 31st March, 1931, representing an increase of £4,389 over that year. The increase occurs in poor relief charges. Inasmuch as a debit balance on poor rate account of approximately £2,000 had to be provided for and levied last year, the Council is in the fortunate position of being able to offset the increase of £2,000 by the non-provision for a debit balance this year, with the result that the gross levy for the poor rate portion of the municipal rate will be no greater than that of the past year.

"As regards the portion of the municipal rate controlled by the Corporation I am glad to be able to state that the hope expressed in my report on the estimates last year, that although various new works had been undertaken since the creation of the borough, the aggregate of the urban rates levied by the four abolished Urban Councils would not be exceeded, has been realised.

BAND RECITALS.

"Expenditure will be incurred on the decoration of the borough for the great International Eucharistic Congress to the extent of 1d. in the £, and I also submit a proposal to make provision for a contribution of a penny rate for band recitals during the summer. This will be to the advantage of the district as a holiday resort, and if it will not enable outdoor music to be provided absolutely free to the public it should, at least, cover the difference between receipts and outlay, and it may possibly permit of a reduction to the public in the charges for admission to these entertainments.

"Notwithstanding the expenditure under these heads, I feel confident that it will be possible to live within the same municipal rate as that levied for the past year, i.e., 15s. 8d. in the £ on the borough area (other than the portion thereof which the passing of the Local Government (Dublin) Act, 1930, constituted the Urban District of Killiney and Ballybrack; the rate in Killiney and Ballybrack district to be also the same as last year—viz., 13s. 3d. in the £, plus Police Rate on the portion of that district within the Dublin Metropolitan Area."

IRISH BOOT-MAKING INDUSTRY.

OLDEST DUBLIN FACTORY CLOSED.

A meeting, under the auspices of the National Boot and Shoe Operatives' Union and the Workers' Union of Ireland, for the purpose of calling attention to the closing down of Messrs. Winstanley's boot factory, at Back lane, Dublin, and to the need for having tariffs in force, was held at the Mansion House, Dublin, last night.

Mr. Harry Dale (Irish Shoe Operatives' Union) presided. He said that Messrs. Winstanley's was the oldest boot factory in Ireland, it being established in 1853. At one period the factory employed over three hundred hands.

The industry was declining year by year, but he saw no reason why Messrs. Winstanley's factory should join the lost industries.

It had been stated that an attempt was to be made at the reorganisation of the industry on competitive lines. He hoped that statement was true.

GWENDOLINE TOLPUTT TO BE FREED.

FRAUD CHARGE AGAINST MALLALIEU.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MARITZBURG, Thursday.

The charge against Miss Gwendoline Tolputt, fiancée of Mr. Richard Mallalieu, of murdering a taxicab driver named Kimber, a year ago, is being withdrawn to-morrow. Her trial had been fixed for April 4th, and Mallalieu, who was acquitted of a similar charge last Thursday, has now been arrested for fraud. Bail was granted, and his trial will instead take place on April 4th.

THE NORTHERN BALANCE.

SURPLUS REVENUE OF £11,648.

IMPERIAL CONTRIBUTION FIXED AT £225,000.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Thursday.

THE Northern Ireland Exchequer statement for the financial year ending 31st March, 1932, was issued to-day.

The statement is in two parts. The first is a revenue and expenditure account leading up to the annual Budget surplus, which, subject to adjustment, is £11,648. The second part deals with borrowings, loans and other items not affecting the surplus, and finishes with the actual balance at the bank. This latter balance is of no significance for the purpose of comparison, but the important item is the surplus of revenue, or Budget surplus, shown in the first account as £11,648. The residuary share of reserved taxes for any financial year (with Northern Ireland's contribution towards the cost of Imperial services) is not fixed by the Joint Exchequer Board until the following year. The figures given, therefore, are provisional, and the Budget surplus, which is influenced by these, is consequently subject to adjustment.

The fact that the Northern Ireland contribution to Imperial services has been provisionally fixed at £225,000 will cause some surprise, in view of the fact that in his last Budget the Northern Minister of Finance anticipated a deficit, and raided the Road Fund to the extent of £120,000 to balance the Budget and provide an Imperial contribution of £75,000.

OBITUARY.

THE REV. WILLIAM LOGAN.

The Rev. William Logan, M.A., Presbyterian Minister, Ballyshannon, died yesterday morning. He had been seven years at Ballyshannon, to which he came from Letterkenny, where he had ministered since his ordination. He was a native of Bridge End, near Derry, where his father was an extensive farmer. He was educated at Foyle and Magee Colleges, Derry, Assembly College, Belfast, and Princeton Seminary.

BRITISH BUDGET BALANCED.

A SURPLUS OF £364,000.

REVENUE RESERVE OF £10,250,000.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT'S BIG TASK.

THE British financial year 1931-'32 ended last night with a surplus of £364,000.

An official announcement by the Treasury says:—

"The Budget has been balanced with a surplus of £364,000, after providing £32,508,000 for the redemption of debt, notwithstanding a decision to limit the amount paid to miscellaneous revenue from the exchange account to twelve and three-quarter millions, including interest, instead of the £23,000,000, including interest, contemplated last September.

"The expenditure on Supply Services is twelve and a half millions less than the September forecast, the reductions realised having been thirty-four and a half millions against the twenty-two millions contemplated in September. It will be observed that not merely were the estimates of the yield of income tax and sur-tax realised, but they provided a surplus of £19,000,000 towards meeting deficits on other heads of revenue."

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS.

The Treasury's statement of accounts shows that revenue was £13,737,000 less, and expenditure £12,580,000 less than the revised Budget estimates of last September. The main figures of the accounts are:—

	Actual Totals.	Revised Budget Estimates.
Revenue	£770,963,000	£784,700,000
Expenditure	£770,599,000	£783,179,000

Realised surplus, £364,000. Estimated surplus, £1,521,000.

THE REVENUE RESERVE.

The realised surplus has fallen short of the estimate by £1,157,000, but supplementary votes have been passed by Parliament since the September Budget was framed. If the Chancellor of the Exchequer had brought into the revenue account, as he had full power to do, the whole of the appropriation of £23,000,000 from the dollar exchange account he would have finished the year with a surplus of £10,614,000.

This figure is the real measure of the results of the financial year. There is a Budget surplus of £364,000, and outside the Budget a revenue reserve of £10,250,000, which the Chancellor could have used, but did not require to use, because the revenue was sufficient to meet all current expenditure and debt obligations without it.

THE SPECIAL MEASURES.

The outcome of the year is most satisfactory, and proclaims the success of the special measures taken last autumn. It will be remembered that the year's finances were reconstructed last September on the formation of the National Government, because, according to official calculations, the Budget was threatened with a deficit on March 31, 1932, of £74,679,000. To meet this situation changes amounting to £76,200,000 were made in the financial programme of the year, these consisting of:

New taxation—£40,500,000.
Economies—£22,000,000.
Savings on debt amortisation—£13,700,000.

Thus Lord Snowden sought to convert a prospective deficit of £74,679,000 into a surplus of £1,521,000. The actual result, including the unused reserve in the Exchange Account, is over £9,000,000 better than this.

INCOME TAX YIELD.

Income tax is the most cheerful feature of the accounts. It has actually exceeded the revised estimate by £15,367,000. Lord Snowden, having raised the rate by sixpence to five shillings in the pound, and having recast the scale of allowances, budgeted for £272,000,000 from income tax. The actual yield is £287,367,000—the highest since 1922-23, a prosperous income tax year that was immediately followed by a sixpenny reduction in the rate.

The sur-tax has also exceeded official expectations. The Budget estimate was £73,000,000. The actual receipt is £76,700,000 —the highest amount of revenue ever taken from super-taxpayers in a single year. Income tax and sur-tax together have yielded an increase over the estimate of £19,000,000. Estate duties have yielded only £65,000,000, which is £18,000,000 less than the Budget estimate; while stamps, which were estimated to produce £20,000,000, fell short by £3,000,000.

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE.

Customs and Excise revenue was estimated to produce a total of £253,000,000. The actual receipts have exceeded this sum by £3,000,000, but of this about £2,000,000 is on account of new import duties under the Abnormal Importations Act, the Horticultural Products Act, and the Import Duties Act.

The Post Office net receipt is £700,000 less than was expected, and there is a further shortage in receipts from sundry loans and miscellaneous. These two latter heads were estimated at £58,200,000, and have realised £43,723,000. The difference is due mainly to the reduction in the amount paid to miscellaneous revenue from the Exchange account.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The following are details of the revenue receipts compared with Budget expectations:—

EXPENDITURE.

Expenditure is £12,580,000 less than was provided for in the revised Budget. The Permanent Debt Charge, as revised last September, was fixed at £322,000,000, which included £32,500,000 for debt redemption. The whole of this sum has been issued and applied in the manner provided.

It is on the Supply Services that a substantial saving is shown. The original Budget estimate of last April was £439,000,000. In the revised financial statement of last September this was increased to £473,800,000 owing mainly to the decision to stop borrowing for unemployment, insurance and roads, but before taking into account the economies proposed in the second Budget.

These economies were estimated to save £70,000,000 in 1932-33 and £22,000,000 in 1931-32. In fact, the Exchequer issue has proved to be £439,200,000, showing a saving of £12,600,000 on the revised estimates. The total saving in 1931-32 has, therefore, amounted to £34,500,000.

Payments to the Sinking Fund are £92,000 below the estimate, but this deficiency is more than made good by the surplus of

THE FLOATING DEBT.

The self-balancing revenue and expenditure amounted to £50,519,000, which is £1,063,000 less than the Budget estimates. Details are:—

Post Office, £58,000,000, a decrease of the estimates of £232,000.

Motor vehicle duties apportioned to Road Fund, £22,519,000, a decrease on the estimates of £831,000.

The floating debt now stands at £611,955,000, compared with £594,325,000 a year ago, an increase of £17,530,000.

It was learned on inquiry at the Treasury yesterday that bills amounting to 30,000,000 dollars which matured on the 29th March in New York have been repaid, and that the balance, amounting to 900,000,000 francs, of the credit given by the consortium of French banks has been paid off.

In each case the Treasury retains the right to reborrow until twelve months after the grant of the credits in August and September last. The loan of 2,500 million francs from the French public has not been repaid.

Mr. Robert Carswell, of "Ormidale," Marlborough Park, South, and Queen street, Belfast, merchant, of Robert Carswell and Sons, Ltd., who died on November 15th last, left personal estate in Great Britain and Northern Ireland valued at £12,336 7s. 11d. Probate of his will dated February 22nd, 1929, has been granted to his widow, Mrs. Kathleen Carswell, and his son, Alan Edward Carswell, merchant, both of the above address.

PROTEST AGAINST NEW PROPOSAL.

CONGRESS TO OFFER STRONG OPPOSITION.

MR. ROBERT NEILLY presided at the Irish National Teachers' Congress, which resumed its sittings at the Mansion House, Dublin, yesterday.

Mr. Kearney (President-elect), moving on behalf of the Central Executive Council "That on economical, educational and ethical grounds this Congress objects to the proposed discontinuance of lady teachers on marriage, and instructs the incoming C.E.C. to offer the most uncompromising opposition to the introduction of any rule to that effect," said that no rule to this effect had yet been made. It was a matter they would have to take up with the Ministry if they tried to establish such a rule. They held that a lady teacher had as much right to get married as any other young lady.

IN NORTHERN IRELAND.

Mr. Caraher (Portadown), seconding the motion, said that the rule was having a serious effect on candidate lady teachers in Northern Ireland. They were beginning to consider whether it was worth while to join the profession.

Mr. D. Daly (Cork), who supported, said that the teaching profession would become for ladies a state or place of punishment where some souls suffered for a time before they entered matrimony.

The motion was passed unanimously.

INSPECTORS' CRITICISMS.

Mr. Kearney, on behalf of the C.E.C., moved: "That this Congress protests against the inclusion in the annual reports of the Department of Education of statements from the Department's inspectors, composed mainly of unfavourable criticisms of the work of the teachers; and we request the Minister for Education to forbid the future publication of such statements, as they are likely to create an impression of general inefficiency in his Department, especially as the Department of Education seems to be the only Government department whose reports contain statements derogatory to the Department's work."

Mr. Kearney said that this was a matter which caused great annoyance to the teachers throughout the country. One would think from the reports, he said, that the teachers were shirkers instead of nervous wrecks from keeping up the farce of bi-lingualism.

Mr. Murphy (New Ross) said that as long as men inexperienced in teaching and with no knowledge of the psychology of the child were appointed as judges of the teachers no better state of affairs could be hoped for.

STRANGLED BY RED TAPE.

Mr. C. Mansfield (Tipperary) said that their programme in the school was unique amongst the systems in the schools throughout the world. They had to teach two languages, and teach all subjects through these languages. They knew that that training was useful later on in the secondary schools and in the higher branches of education, but in the primary schools one language was affecting the other and increasing the difficulties of their work. The red tape that was strangling them should be wiped away, and the inspectors should be the friends of the teachers and should co-operate with them. It seemed to him that the teachers were struggling on the backwash of the penal days.

The resolution was passed.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

ORGANISATION'S NEW POLICY.

On the motion of Mr. Duignan (Kells), seconded by Mr. Smith (Navan), it was unanimously agreed: "That it be the future policy of the I.N.T.O. to resist by every legitimate means in their power all inroads on their salaries and emoluments."

A resolution that all work mistresses at present in the service be included in the proposed pension scheme was passed on the motion of Mr. Masterson (Carrick-on-Shannon).

Mr. Rowan (Tralee) moved a resolution calling on the C.E.C. to put forward, when the final details of the pension scheme were under consideration, the claims of teachers who have completed forty years' teaching, and who intend to continue in the service under the 65 rule.

Mr. Carraher seconded the resolution, which was passed unanimously.

Mr. Rowan further moved a resolution instructing the C.E.C. to press on the attention of the Ministry the cases of junior assistant mistresses and teachers in convents and monastery schools, who had to leave the service through breakdown in health.

Mr. Nunan seconded the motion, which was adopted.

OVERLOADED PROGRAMME.

Mr. O'Riordan (Cloughan) moved a resolution, which was passed, expressing the opinion that the present secular programme for national schools is overloaded and unsuitable, and calling on the C.E.C. to press for the immediate drawing-up of a programme which will not exceed in number of subjects or extent of curriculum the programme in force in 1920, and will also permit of grouping of classes.

PROTEST AGAINST ROMAN SCRIPT.

Mr. O'Callaghan (Donegal) proposed that the national teachers of Ireland, in whose hands rested the restoration of the Irish language, protest most strongly against the introduction of the Roman script, and should reiterate a demand for its unconditional withdrawal in Irish.

Mr. John Quigley (Co. Donegal) seconded the motion, which was passed.

On the motion of Mr. Heffernan (Birr), seconded by Mr. McCarthy (Offaly), a motion was adopted expressing the opinion of the delegates that the recent rule raising the average necessary for the appointment and retention of assistants should be withdrawn, as it inflicted an undue hardship upon that class of teachers.

Mr. Flynn (Tipperary) proposed a motion calling attention to the present arrangements for the heating and cleaning of schools as being entirely inadequate and unsatisfactory, and requesting the C.E.C. to press strongly for a proper scheme in which no responsibility for that class of work would be thrown on the teachers.

The motion was passed.

THE TRAINING OF TEACHERS.

Mr. Mansfield (Tipperary) drew attention, in a motion, to the present system of training teachers, which was described as uneconomical and educationally unsound and unsatisfactory. As a result of that, Congress should demand a complete alteration in it, so as to bring the whole system into immediate contact with the universities, and provide a training suitable to a great profession.

The resolution was passed.

A PRIVATE SESSION.

After the conclusion of the private session of the Congress, an official statement was issued.

The balance sheet and statement of accounts was adopted at the afternoon private session of the I.N.T.O. Congress.

A motion by the Dublin City Branch: "That Congress disapproves of the policy of making grants from the political fund only to candidates who stand in the interests of the Irish Labour Party," was ruled out of order.

Congress adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

THE UNEMPLOYE NEED HELP.

OPPORTUNITY FO THE CHURCHES.

A PUBLIC meeting under the auspi the Dublin Christian Citize Council, was held yesterday in Dawson Hall, Dawson street, Dubli which the Churches' opportunity to help unemployed was under consideration.

Alderman J. Hubbard Clark presided.

The Chairman said that the question fore them was one of the greatest problems of the day. He was afraid the reason why so little progress had made towards its solution was because had excused themselves on the ground difficulties and complications.

The Rev. Malcolm Spencer, M.A., Secretary, Christian Social Council, said the unemployed, broadly speaking, were employed through no fault of their own. England, he said, there were four type help that were being provided for the of the unemployed, and to get rid of sense of ostracism which large group people felt. To meet this the Churches throwing open their rooms to these people, making them rallying centres, men and women were helped to feel they had friends in the community. provision of allotments and workshop abled men to be brought together and something useful in the way of conti employment.

In some centres attempts were being to find them jobs, but it was clear tha trouble at present was that things were made so cheaply that it led to increase employment. Their present troubles wer to the fact that it was so extraordinarily to meet the human wants, and these could now be supplied with so much human labour.

Speaking from the point of view of moral dilemmas of different nations, he protection as one, and said that the one on which the economic experts of the were agreed at Geneva in 1929 wa abolition of tariffs, and yet, he added, nation was proceeding along the lines of tection or high tariffs.

Mr. Charles Eason said that they now a Government in power who intended tackle the question of unemployment. scheme had as far been placed before people, so that they had no idea what scheme would be. He would, however, for the Government that, no matter scheme they put forward, it should be desire of the people not to pick holes in a scheme, but to help the Governmen every possible way.

Adjudicator's Tribute to Dublin Winner of Coveted Cup.

◆

FROM OUR REPORTER.

SLIGO, Thursday.

THE different competitions at the Sligo Feis Ceoil were again largely attended to-day. The principal event was the contest for the Sligo Cup. There were only two entrants for the competition, which is open to tenor, baritone, and bass voices, but the adjudicators were not satisfied with the performances, and did not make any award. They also withheld the silver medal for boys under fourteen in the vocal solo competition.

THE AWARDS.

Special Open Class (Recitation). Test:—One piece (verse or prose) of competitor's own selection.—1, Miss Mona Parkes, Sligo (88 marks); 2, Miss Jill Noone, Sligo (86 marks).

Miss Brettell, adjudicating, said that she thought the competitors chose their pieces very wisely, and the pieces, on the whole, were well spoken. The winner, who recited "Cutting the Rushes," spoke charmingly and simply. Her articulation was extremely good. The runner-up took a good, but difficult, piece, and managed it extremely well.

The Sligo Cup.—Tests were from Wagner and Henschel, with an Irish air of competitor's own choice.—1, J. Hogge, Sligo (148 marks); 2, Edward O'Brien, Tuam (146 marks).

Dr. Darke said that the standard achieved by the two competitors was not sufficiently high to justify the awarding of the cup. The winner had quite a good voice, but as he sang he let its quality deteriorate considerably. The runner-up was very faulty in his rhythm.

Junior Violin Solo (children under 15 years).—1, Louis Hill, Dublin (182 marks); 2, Shaun McMonagle, Ballina (176 marks).

Dr. Moody said that, on the whole, the standard was good. There was a certain amount of faulty intonation and lack of freedom in the bowing.

Junior Piano Solo (confined to Connaught and County Donegal).—1, Eilis Tohall, Roscommon (187 marks); 2, Corrie Watson, Sligo (178 marks).

Dr. Moody said that the standard in this class was very high, and the few defects were in the direction of imagination. All the children showed that they had been well taught. The winner was really a very musical child, and showed great feeling.

CHILDREN'S SOLO.

Children's Vocal Solo, confined to boys and girls under fourteen, attending national schools in Connaught. Tests (Boys): "Who is Sylvia" (Schubert); (Girls) "Hark! Hark! the Lark" (Schubert). Girls—1, Mary Moore Fallon, Westport; 2, May Fitzpatrick, Sligo. Boys—No first prize was awarded in the boys' class; 2, Tom McEnnis, Tuam.

Dr. Darke said that he was very disappointed with the class. Children should be taught to pronounce well, and in this respect more fault was found among the boys than the girls. He could see the children were capable of much better work, and he hoped for an improvement next year.

Novices, Elementary 'Cello Solo. Tests: (a) "Triste" (Squire); (b) "Joyeuse" Nos. 1 and 2 from Petits Morceaux Ap. (Augener, 7754)—1, Miss Betty Lumsden, Dublin (86); 2, Miss Sheila Crichton, Dublin (82).

Dr. Darke said that the winner gave a musical performance full of expression and interest. The second prize-winner's intonation was quite capable.

Girls' Solo, for competitors under seventeen. Tests: (a) "The Milkmaid" (Dunhill); (b) "The Sun" (Lully)—1, Irene Harrison, Bundoran (175); 2, Edythe West, Ballinasloe (164); 3, Rita Lynch, Bundoran (159).

Dr. Darke said that there were some splendid voices among the competitors in this class. He complained of the lack of breath control; but whatever excuse there was for that, there was no excuse whatever for bad rhythm. In nearly every case bad time-keeping was a feature of the song, "The Sun."

Ladies' Duet (S.C.). Tests: (a) "My banks they are furnished with bees" (Arne); (b) a duet of competitors' own choice—1, Miss Olga Burns and Miss Linehan, Sligo (178).

Dr. Darke said that the performance of the winners, the only competitors, was really splendid. The two voices matched each other in a remarkable way. They sang with feeling and had naturally beautiful tone.

SINGING GAMES.

Singing Games in Irish (for children under twelve years)—1, Miss De Peus Troupe, Sligo (88 marks). This was the only troupe entered. Mr. J. J. Kelly, adjudicating, said that the children entered into the spirit of the song, and sustained the tone and rhythm right through.

Irish School Choirs (two part). Tests: "Teanga na h-Eireann" (An Ceoloir) and an Irish chorus of competitors own choice—1, St. Louis Convent National School Choir, Bundoran (81 marks).

There was only one entry, and Mr. Kelly said that they gave a very musical performance, but they did not seem to get the spirit of "Teanga na h-Eireann." The altos seemed a little too loud, and one voice seemed to stand out too much.

Junior Duet in Irish (under 17 years)—Rita Lynch and Mary Stephens, who were the only entrants, secured second place with 73 marks.

The adjudicator expressed disappointment with the performance. They did not interpret the duet properly, and the rythm was very bad.

PLAIN CHANT.

The Connaught Perpetual Challenge Cup, presented by the Rev. Eoghan MacLochlainn for the best rendering of plain chant—1 and cup, the St. Louis Convent Choir, Bundoran (80 marks).

Dr. Moody, adjudicating, said that speaking from a wide experience of plain chant in England and France, he would say that the singing of this choir (there was only one entrant) could almost be taken as a pattern in other countries. The tone was very good, with a devotional feeling running all through it. It was a very creditable performance.

Baritone Solo Tests: (a), "Roadways" (in a flat); (b), "Silent Worship" (in G)—1, G. Cunningham, Sligo (165 marks); 2, D. A. McCormack, Sligo (154 marks).

Dr. Moody said that the winner had a real musical voice, and gave a most artistic performance.

Ladies' Trio. Tests: "Oh Days That Are no More" (Schumann); and a trio of competitors own choice—1, Mrs. Verschoyle and the Misses Stella and Mary Lestrange, Sligo (167 marks); 2, Misses E. Stephenson, G. Orr, and M. Linehan, Sligo (165 marks).

Dr. Moody said that all the voices were good, and some of them extraordinarily good; but the blend was far from perfect. The winners gave an artistic performance.

Senior Violin Solo. Tests: "Rich and Rare" (arr. Esposito); Tarantelle, op. 314, No. 13 (C. Bohm)—1, Miss Rita Craig, Londonderry (179 marks); 2, Mr. C. Irwin (174 marks).

Dr. Moody said that the playing was of a very high order, and worthy of comparison with that heard at any other festival. The winner had given a rich tone throughout, and her intonation was almost as perfect as it could be. She was most artistic.

Instrumental Trio (violin, violoncello and piano). Test: Trio No. 3, op. 110, in G minor, second and third movements (Schumann)—1, Miss B. Lumsden's Trio, Dublin (85); 2, M. Franklin's Trio, Sligo (83); 3, Miss Joyce Bently, Moate (79).

Dr. Moody said that, taken generally, the performances of the trios were very good.

ACCOMPLISHED PLAYERS.

Silver cup for violin playing. Competitors to play two pieces of their own selection, marks being given for the musical value of the pieces chosen—1, Miss Rita Craig, Derry (the holder) (187); 2, Miss Mabel Kenny, Dublin (179); 3, Mr. Campbell Muir, Derry (176).

Dr. Darke said that these were three very accomplished players. They were good fiddlers and had able technique. His job as adjudicator of that competition was not an enviable one. He found it difficult to make a decision on a question of technique.

String Quartet: two violins, viola and 'cello—1, Mrs. Brian Crichton's Quartet, Dublin (85); 2, Mr. Franklin's Quartet, Sligo (77). There were only two entrants.

"I wonder," said Dr. Darke when announcing his decision, "how it is that we should have to come to the West coast of Ireland in order to hear string quartets playing at a festival. When I have been judging at similar festivals in England I found this class down on the syllabus, but nearly always it was scratched, because there were no entrants. Here we have had two splendid enthusiastic entries for this splendid competition."

He went on to appeal for an interest in the revival of this class, and said: "If we do not look out we will lose this great joy of making music together. It is so easy nowadays, when all you have to do is to turn on a tap or put a plug in the wall and you get music second-hand. Unless there is a sustained interest in music and a desire to make music together we will cease to be a musical community. I hope this class will grow considerably at this and other feiseanna in Ireland."

Junior Solo Singing in Irish (under 12 years)—1, Mary Moore Fallon, Westport (173); 2, Gracie Carr, Bundoran (163); 3, Susan McKenna, Bundoran (157).

Intermediate Solo Singing in Irish (under 14 years)—1, Edythe West, Ballinasloe (173); 2, Tom McEnnis, Tuam (168).

IRISH SINGING.

Senior Solo Singing in Irish—1, Miss Lily Carty, Ballaghaderreen, and Miss Mairghead Kelly, Dublin, tied with 178 marks; 2, Liam O'Reilly, Ballina (168 marks).

Male Quartet—1, Miss Ballantine's Male Quartet, No. 1 (156 marks); 2, Miss Ballantine's Quartet, No. 2 (155 marks).

Dr. Moody said that only one mark divided them. He did not think the standard of the work justified the award of the silver medals, but he would award them the bronze medals.

Sligo Feis Ceoil Cup, open to Soprano, Mezzo-soprano and Contralto voices—Tests (soprano); "Love went a-riding"; (mezzo) "Autumn Storms"; (contralto) "Sapphic Ode"; also an Irish air, of competitor's own choice—1 and Cup, Mrs. John T. Doyle, Dublin (mezzo), 170 marks; 2, Mrs. Ennis, Carrick-on-Shannon (soprano), 169 marks.

Dr. Darke said that he had a very difficult task to differentiate between these two, but in that Miss Dorothy Stokes, the official accompanist, proved of great assistance. The prize winner sang in a most lovely way, and with a wistfulness and tenderness that held everybody. The melody was beautifully shaded, and she let the words speak for themselves. She showed by her interpretation her sincerity as an artist. The runner-up also had a fine voice, and had shown many times during the festival the great wideness of her musical outlook.

Junior Step-Dancing (Intermediate), for children under seventeen—Tests: slip-jig and reel—1, Aggie Egan, Athlone (171); 2, Breda O'Toole, Galway (170); 3, Peggy Burke, Sligo (169).

Mr. George Leonard said that the competition was most disappointing; all the dancing was bad, and too jerky.

Reels and Jigs (violin) (Senior)—1, Sean Horan, Sligo (83); 2, Kevin Flanagan, Ballyhaunis (82).

Junior, any song in Irish (under seventeen years)—1, Mary Quinn, Sligo (91); 2, Peggy Butler, Sligo (90).

Competitions for Teachers and First Prize Winners—Tests: hornpipe and double jig—1, Miss Veronica Convery, Belfast (169); 2, Miss Eileen Howley, Sligo (166); 3, Miss Mona Convery, Belfast (165).

Mr. Harry Scott, aged 79, a builder and contractor, of Newport (Isle of Wight), and his wife, aged 77, who died at their home within twenty-four hours of each other, were buried side by side in one grave yesterday.

PELOUSE COLT AGAIN.

PHARAOH III. SHOWS LIKING FOR THE LEICESTER TRACK.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LEICESTER, Thursday Night.

THE same bad conditions of going that were so marked yesterday prevailed again here this afternoon, and it is forecast that the broken weather may be present for some time. It is said that there may be a fall of snow, and we had a foretaste of this to-day in frequent hail showers.

It is next to useless at the moment running a horse who will only show his best form when the ground is firm, and laying odds on any horse in such circumstances is hazardous, but there were some grounds for ignoring this in the case of the Worksop Plate to-day, for when the colt by Syndrian out of Pelouse made his flattering first appearance at Nottingham last week the horses cut deeply into the turf.

Long odds were asked for about him to-day, and there was never much doubt that they would be landed. He raced in front from the ascent of the barrier, and won with consummate ease by five lengths from Maline after giving a very smooth performance.

AN EASY WINNER.

One of the Pelouse colt's victims at Nottingham had been the Colorado filly, Colour Bar, who finished third to him yesterday, yesterday's winner Rose de Vie, separating the pair. This seemed good enough to justify laying odds on Colour Bar in the Glen Selling Plate, but although she jumped off with a good lead she stopped to nothing halfway up the hill and was beaten into third place, Mr. Cottrill's gelding, Pottage, winning easily by two lengths from the Rosula gelding.

Pottage is by Birthright, whose wayward ways robbed him of the bright Turf career which his triumphs in his early days as a two-year-old presaged. He now stands at the Shanganagh Stud, and his owner, Sir Malcolm McAlpine, has never let the price deter him in buying suitable mares to put to him. Although his owner-trainer did not want Pottage back, and he was sold for 210 gns., it is a hopeful augury for Birthright that his first runner should be a winner.

Admiral of the Fleet Lord Beatty has not been racing since a horse he was schooling last November put him down and broke his jaw very badly. He is well enough to hunt again, and was out with Mr. Fernies to-day, so he was not present to see his moderate plating filly, Dahra, win the Syston Selling Plate.

DAHRA SCORES.

She was in with bottom weight, 7st., which was reduced 5lb. by the allowance claimed for Major Beatty's boy, Swales. The boy rode a cool, confident race on her and beat Gordon Richards on Roi de Paris by two lengths, with the favourite, Discus, third.

I do not know whether it was the bad going or the fact that he is a bad animal that beat Hurry Brian in the Leicestershire Handicap, but after 11 to 10 had been taken about him Lord Brougham's colt finished last of the seven runners, and it must be said that he never looked like winning.

This race gave Sir Victor Sassoon and his jockey, Donoghue, their first win of the season, when Pharaoh III. beat Lunavada by a head. It was a good effort by the son of Pharos, on whom Donoghue rode a really beautiful race, for he was carrying top weight, but Donoghue nursed him and waited on Lunavada, who had been first away, to come with a final spurt that landed him a clever winner.

WON ONLY AT LEICESTER.

Useful as Pharaoh must be, he has never won anywhere except at Leicester, and his only successes prior to this afternoon were in two nurseries on this course. In one of these races he beat Hosanna by a short head, and that useful colt was among the runners for the Wigston Handicap, where he had 8st. 11lb. He had too much to do, and did not finish in the first half-dozen.

Horses that had run well at Lincoln, like High Hill and Iron Ration, did not do so well here, though the latter finished third in the Wigston Plate, and Gordon Richards came at the finish on Private Present to win fairly easily from Meadowbrook.

Both first and second are geldings by Arch Gift, and the winner, who was bred by Captain Cullen, is out of that good mare, Soldier's Daughter. Private Present is trained in Miss Wilmott's stable.

Joyous Greeting ran well in the Apprentices' Plate, but not well enough to beat the Liverpool winner, Gallions Reach.

A SIMPLE EXPLANATION.

It is very unusual to find a blank Friday, except Good Friday, in the calendar, but there is one to-morrow. People wonder why this should be, but there is the simple explanation that no executive wanted the date.

GALTEE MORE.

MR. P. J. LEONARD'S DOUBLE.

ODDS-ON FAVOURITES FAIL AT PROUDSTOWN PARK.

DESPITE the bitterly cold weather and the small fields for the various races, the attendance at Proudstown Park yesterday was fairly satisfactory, and the receipts were in excess of those of the previous meeting. The fact that Billy Black was allowed to walk over for the Nugentstown Steeplechase reduced the number of races to five, which made the proceedings drag somewhat.

Mr. P. J. Leonard, who has been winning quite a number of races with the limited number of horses under his care, brought off a double event with Lerida and Golearia, and in each instance his wins meant the defeat of odds-on favourites. Our Bird was regarded in the light of a certainty for the Rathhenry Plate, but, never galloping generously, he was a long way behind Lerida when he pecked at the last hurdle and threw his rider. Lady Frivol, on the strength of her useful form in hurdle races, was similarly thought to be a good thing for the Durhamstown Plate, and again the odds laid on were upset by Golearia, who stayed on the better to win by a length.

Backers who laid odds on Bengerstown to win the Ratoath Steeplechase early knew their fate, for the son of Irishman ran out at the ditch after going half a mile, and Roseate Dawn, holding Sanders safe for the remainder of the journey, won in comfortable style.

Two sons of Apron—namely, Tullycross, the winner of a valuable race at York last September, and Overall, the winner of last year's Irish Cesarewitch, were opposed in the Maiden Hurdle Race, and the former, who is now the property of Mr. L. Bell, was made favourite. He was, however, easily beaten by Mr. T. J. Taaffe's horse, who had the issue safe for the last half-mile.

The Duke de Stacpoole, who last season sold his good horse, Thomond II., to an English owner, won the Duleek Steeplechase with a four-year-old son of Drinmore named Cloncowan, who, judging by the sasy manner of his winning, bids fair to turn out a useful steeplechaser. He was in front from the start, and won in the easiest style imaginable from Chimney Top and Leafy Palm.

RIDER'S TREBLE AT SHILLELAGH.

BRISK SPORT WITH THE COOLLATTIN HUNT.

THE fifty-seven entries for the five events at the Coollattin Hunt Point-to-Point at Shillelagh yesterday was a record for the meeting, and, with forty-seven starters, it was one of the briskest day's sport of the season. For once in a while the members and supporters of the Hunt were favoured with a fine day, and there was an enormous attendance, among the distinguished company being the Earl of Fitzwilliam, M.F.H., and his heir, Viscount Milton, the celebration of whose coming of age next week is being eagerly looked forward to by the residents of the district.

The four-mile course was in splendid condition, and capital finishes were the order, but the salient feature was the riding of Mr. W. Burgess. He had the mount on Mr. E. Hammond's Quick March in the Hunt Cup, which he won easily enough from Mr. G. B. Taylor's Luke, and then proceeded to bring off the double event for Mr. Hammond by getting Coogley home a length and a half from Miss O'Connor's Bobine. In the Ladies' Nomination Race he accomplished the "hat trick" on Captain Woodhouse's The Wicklow Star, riding a particularly strong finish to beat Mr. M. A. Furlong on Mount Elliott. The Heavy-Weight Race was also productive of a great set-to between Mr. O'Donnell's Heather Girl and Luck's Coming, but the former lasted it out gamely to win by half a length.

HUNTING.

WARD UNION HOUNDS.

AN EXCITING INCIDENT.

The final meet of the season, which had been fixed for Dunshaughlin, was changed to Kilcarne to hunt the outlier in that district. This stag has escaped capture during the last two seasons by crossing the Boyne when pursued by the pack. On this occasion he was found on the other side of the river near Ardsallagh, but went away by Boyne Hill, and crossed the river near Bellinter Bridge into Dowdstown. The pack were soon around, and pushed him away from the wood via Philpotstown into Lismullen, but he turned back by Garlow Cross for the Boyne again, and ran the valley along by Bellinter to Bective. Here he stood at bay in the centre of the river ford and for two hours defied all attempts to take him. Eventually he moved into deep water, and Mr. O'Hagan, a well-known member of the hunt, removed his soaked hunting clothes and swam after the stag with a long rope, by which means he was eventually captured amidst considerable excitement.

MEATH HOUNDS.

Hounds met at Beauparc on Wednesday, and finding their first fox just beyond the house ran to Cole's gate, and put him to ground in a badger earth. They next found in Ardmulchan, near the Navan road, but only got as far as the plantation when scent gave out. From Hayes they ran out by the farmyard to the railway, and after running the line for a short distance the fox crossed back over the Navan road into Dollardstown, where he was lost. A fox had left Harristown before hounds arrived, but taking up his line at the bottom and they went away, pointing for Staffordstown, short of which the quarry turned about to the right, and went on by Moortown, and was lost near Sion. Staffordstown and Brownstown were drawn blank, and nothing more was done.

69 DERBY ACCEPTORS.

IRISH-OWNED HORSES IN ENGLISH CLASSIC RACES.

THERE were no surprise forfeits at the second acceptance stage of the three principal "classic" races. Lord Astor's Mannamead has accepted for the Derby and St. Leger, and this seems to indicate that the Manton colt may, after all, be trained for the Epsom "classic," and that his recent disability may not be so serious as at first it was considered to be.

The total number of acceptances at this stage for the three races is much lower than was the case last year, when 309 accepted, this season's figures being—Derby 69, Oaks 52, St. Leger 96. Total—217.

There will be a third and final acceptance for the Derby, Oaks and St. Leger on the Tuesday in the week before running.

Irish owners, or owners who race principally in this country, have interests in all three races. Mr. R. S. Croker has left Corcy and Celebrator in the Derby, and these two, as well as Chieftain and Claremorris in the St. Leger.

Mr. W. Barnett's Centeno, sister to the Derby winner, Trigo, remains in the Oaks and St. Leger, and Mr. H. S. Gray has accepted for the Oaks with Sea Mark, the half-sister to Sea Serpent, who won both her races last season. Mr. Croker's horses are trained by C. Brabazon at the Curragh, and Sea Mark is under the care of P. Behan at Irish headquarters, but Centeno is now at Whatcombe, where she is being prepared for her "classic" engagements by R. C. Dawson.

An interesting acceptor for the Derby is Jackdaw the Second, formerly the property of Mr. B. M. Slocock, but now owned by Prince Aly Khan, and trained by John Beary at Tilshead.

Bismarck Sold.

Our Curragh correspondent states that Senator J. J. Parkinson has sold his smart two-year-old, Bismarck, to Prince Aly Khan, and the colt left the Maddenstown Lodge stables yesterday for John Beary's quarters at Tilshead, Berkshire. The son of Passer or Linby and Herbaceous was bred by Mr. Parkinson, the famous Curragh trainer, and on his first appearance at Baldoyle won the Juvenile Plate from a big field.

FLY-WEIGHT RIVALRY RENEW

As in the championships, the fly-weights produce the best combination of boxing ing of the evening. Kerr will probably come out on top, for his knowledge hard-hitting will make him produce boxing. If the Cork boy fights as well at Portobello, however, there will not be it, and in the background is G. Roche ford, who is quite capable of beating them. Both McMullen, the promising and Caprani have moved up from the class, and while both are hard hitters, sheer physical strength and stamina him through the bantam class. Smith fairly clear superiority over O'Reilly. Whelan in the championships, and capable of doing so again but Kennedy a very stiff task in the leight-weight, may give him a close fight. It will be that he was unlucky in having his eye in a fight which he won easily in the ships, and, while he is not as hard Kennedy, he is a sufficiently good boxer the St. Andrew's man.

As O'Shea is not competing in weight, Flood will probably confirm his close fight against Gregan at Port if Magill is at his best he may prove and aggressive for Chase. His form in the A.B.A. Championships ever, does not enhance his prospects The heavy-weight appears to be very class will be lacking. There is really between Mulligan and Breathnach, while may prove too hard-hitting for either following are the competitors:—

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

SWEDISH GROUP WEAKEN

With the exception of the International counters rather quiet conditions prevailed in most sections of the Industrial market yesterday. Further declines occurred among the Swedish Match issues despite the assistance granted by the Swedish Government. The report and accounts of the Ford Motor Co. appeared after official hours.

A good turnover was reported among the trans-Atlantic counters. The tone at the opening was firm, but later price movements became erratic owing to less favourable advices from Wall street.

Transactions in Electricals were on only a moderate scale, but generally a satisfactory tendency was maintained.

Motors were easier, Austins at 27s. 9d., Leylands at 37s., Napiers at 4s., and Thomas Tilling at 56s. 6d. The Morris results were regarded as satisfactory in the circumstances, and the Preference shares closed unchanged at 23s. 6d.

A fair business in Unilever and Unilever N.V. left them 1/32 easier at 1 7/16. Tate and Lyles were unaffected by the reported international agreement regarding sugar production and export.

There was an absence of fresh support for the Textile leaders. Linen Thread weakened to 21s. 6d. on a few scattered sales, while J. and P. Coats receded to 41s. 7½d.

Rayons moved within narrow limits. Snia Viscosa eased further to 2 1/16, with Courtaulds steady at 33s. 1½d. British Enka derived no benefit from the annual results, being offered at 7s.

Breweries gave a mixed display. Guinness received additional support, and finished 6d. higher on balance at 80s. 3d.

Tobacco remained on the dull side. Carreras "A" eased 1/16 to 3 11/16, and "Bats" lost the turn at 3 31/32, while Gallahers reacted slightly to 1 15/16.

The few movements in the Banking group proved adverse to holders.

Spillers continued in receipt of fair support in anticipation of the forthcoming report and general trading prospects. London Brick strengthened to 32s. 6d., as did Molasses, to 8s. 7½d., assisted by "bear" covering. Imperial Chemical Ord. moved within narrow limits.

Dunlops rallied to the overnight level of 10s. 9d., after weakening in the earlier dealings.

The Swedish Match issues continued to dwindle. Swedish Match "B" were particularly heavy, and gave way 1/16 to 1 11/16, with the "A" 1/16 lower at 1⅝. Kreuger "B" shed ⅛ to 1/16, although the Participating and Gold Debs. were finally unchanged. International Match were called 6¼. S.K.F. were marked down ⅛ to 5⅛, but Electrolux moved up ⅛ to 4⅛.

OIL SHARES BRIGHTER.

The more cheerful tendency which developed in the Oil Share Market on Wednesday continued in evidence yesterday, and the recovery in the leading counters made further headway. Business was on an improved scale all round, although attention was again devoted mainly to the leaders, and especially international counters. Prices responded to the renewed Continental demand, and the market finished with an all-round firm appearance.

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

Dull conditions again prevailed in the Rubber Share Market, and, despite the steady tendency apparent in the raw material department, share values were lowered afresh in several directions, a number of the losses being of quite substantial amounts. Quiet and steady conditions characterised the commodity department. Spot, also April and May, fetched 1 13/16d. per lb., with July to September at 2 1/16d. per lb. and October to December at 2 1/16d., after 2⅛d., per lb.

BANK OF ENGLAND RETURN

By far the largest movement shown by the Bank return, issued yesterday, is a drop of £18,882,715 in bankers' deposits, which, at £54,565,819, are £4,222,401 lower than at the corresponding date last year. This reduction is largely due to final tax Treasury bill payments, and is reflected in a rise of £1,679,172 in public deposits, making the total £27,230,726. Private deposits have also advanced, this week's figure being £34,381,270, as compared with £32,969,577 last week. Government securities in the banking department have fallen by £1,920,000 to £35,695,906, as against £30,349,684 at the same time in 1931. Discounts and advances on securities are both higher on the week, the former having risen by £452,482 to £11,725,366, and the latter by £2,443,249 to £51,086,890. In the issue department other Government securities stand at £240,864,396, as against £241,794,776, and other securities at £19,314,668, as compared with £18,380,290 last week. End-month and holiday demands for currency have together resulted in an expansion of £1,693,611 in the active note circulation, which, at £360,529,134, is £3,472,198 higher than at this date in 1931. The Bank's holding of gold coin and bullion has risen by £21,878 to £121,431,791, which is £23,955,396 lower than last year. As a result of the fall in the total reserve, the proportion of reserve to liabilities has fallen by 1.2 per cent. to 30.9 per cent., which is nearly 13 per cent. lower than last year's figure.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At the wool sale at Sydney yesterday 9,555 bales were offered, of which 8,270 were sold. Wool sold privately consisted of 1,951 bales. There was an average selection. Good competition came from all sections of buyers, and prices were firm at Wednesday's level.

THE MONEY MARKET

KEEN DEMAND FOR LOANS.

No change was made in the Bank of England rate of discount yesterday, but in the open market the tendency was firmer owing to a better demand for money. The general quotation for fine three months' bank bills was 2 1/16 to 2⅛ per cent., and the new Treasuries were offered at the higher rate of 1⅞ per cent.

Because of this being the last day of the quarter there was a keen demand for money. Borrowers occasionally paid up to 3½ per cent. for loans until to-day, but the usual charge was 2½ per cent. to 3 per cent. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 2½ per cent. as a rule.

Silver declined ⅛d. on China selling to 17⅜d. per ounce for spot and 17 5/16d. for forward delivery. Gold fell ½d. to 109s. 1d. per oz. fine. About £150,000 was in the market, and was mostly taken by the "unknown buyer."

The easier trend of sterling in terms of the principal gold currencies was continued in the Foreign Exchange market yesterday until just before the close, when a sharp improvement was recorded. Closing rates, however, were higher than for some months past, the dollar rate closing at the highest since November 10 last, when the rate stood at 3.82. Sterling on New York was finally quoted 4c. higher at 3.80, while the Canadian rate rose by 6c. to 4.21. Francs finished ⅜f. cheaper on balance at 96⅝, and Swiss francs weakened by ⅛f. to 19 9/16. Belgas closed at 27⅛, as against 26.95, and Reichsmarks at 15 15/16, as compared with 15⅝. Among the Scandinavian exchanges the Danish and Norwegian rates were both higher, the former closing at 18¼, as against 18.15, and the latter at 18 11/16, as compared with 18 15/16. Japanese yen reacted ⅛ to 21⅛.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

IRISH-AMERICAN OIL COMPANY.—The directors' report for the year ended 31st December, 1931, is as follows:—Since the last report was presented very considerable changes have taken place in the board of directors, due to death and retirement. Captain R. E. Palmer retired in March, 1931, on medical grounds, whilst Mr. F. E. Powell resigned in August. In September Mr. Thomas Laurie was co-opted a director—then holding the dual office of director and secretary. Mr. Dominick Dolan died on the 9th October, 1931, and the directors pay tribute to one of the old stalwarts of the petroleum industry in Ireland. Mr. Frederick John Wolfe was co-opted a director in the month of October. Mr. P. J. Lawrence, managing director, expressed the desire to be permitted to retire on pension, in accordance with the company's employés' pension scheme, and whilst retaining his office as a director of the company, vacated the active office of managing director on the 1st December, 1931. Mr. Thomas Laurie was appointed managing director on the 1st December, 1931, in place of Mr. Lawrence, who had retired on pension. Mr. James Hamilton and Mr. A. G. Worcester subsequently resigned by reason of their retirement from active interest in the petroleum industry. These many changes depleted the board of directors, and, to fill the vacancies, Mr. John McEvoy, Dublin branch manager, and Mr. Joseph Quinlan, Limerick branch manager, were co-opted as directors, and Mr. P. J. Lawrence was appointed chairman of the board. The reorganisation of the board of directors is now completed, and it is, perhaps, worthy of special comment that Mr. P. J. Lawrence has had 32 years' service with the company; Mr. T. Laurie, 20 years' service; Mr. John McEvoy, 29 years' service; Mr. J. Quinlan, 27 years' service. They all joined the company in junior capacities, and have progressively advanced to the positions which they now occupy on the board of directors. Their progress is a direct incentive to every employé of the company. It will be noted that Mr. J. E. Pennefather, formerly head office accountant, has been appointed secretary to the company. Owing to the continued depression in the tanker freight market the directors sold the s.s. Queen Maeve in October last, and the resultant surplus out of the sale has been transferred to general reserve. The directors report having acquired, by purchase, in the month of October last, the whole of the issued capital of the Shandon Candle Company, Ltd., John street, Cork. The Shandon Candle Company, Ltd., was incorporated in the Irish Free State in 1924, and manufactures Irish-made candles and night lights. The year 1931 was a bad one for all industrial concerns, but by strict economy in administration and close attention to marketing problems and difficulties your company has been able to maintain steady progress, and the directors look forward to the future with confidence. Much can be done by the shareholders to foster the demand for the products which the company markets, and your co-operation to this end will be a very real help. Support your investment by buying from the company yourself, and endeavour to persuade your friends to do likewise. The balance of profits for the year, after providing for all trading charges, bad debts, directors' and auditors' fees, depreciation, taxation, Preference dividends and interim dividend on Ordinary shares, amounts to £14,554, to which must be added the balance brought forward from last account £15,997, making a total of £30,551, which the directors recommend be allocated as follows:—To payment of a final dividend on the Ordinary shares for the year ended 31st December, 1931, at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, free of income tax, £7,525, and to carry forward to next account £23,026. In accordance with the provisions of Article 93 all the directors (except the managing director) retire, and, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election. The auditors, Messrs. Cooper and Kenny, incorporated accountants, also retire, and, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

CRYSTALATE GRAMOPHONE.—The trading profits for the year ended January 31 last show an increase of approximately £9,000 over the preceding year at £95,698. The Ordinary dividend for the year is increased to 25 per cent. from 20 5-6 per cent., and the general reserve is raised to £175,000, which figure is £25,000 in excess of the total issued Ordinary share capital of the company. The amount of £24,331 to be carried forward is more than £10,000 in excess of that carried forward last year. For the purpose of acquiring the undertaking of Vocalion Gramophone Co., Ltd., the capital is to be increased to £314,000 by the creation of 80,000 8 per cent. Cumulative Preference shares of 10/- each and 480,000 Ordinary shares of 1/- each. The capital is to be further increased to £375,000 by the creation of 20,000 8 per cent. Cumulative Preference shares of 10/- each and 1,020,000 Ordinary shares of 1/- each.

D. GESTETNER.—Interim dividend of 5 per cent. on Ordinary, and also six months' dividend on the 7 per cent. Preference shares. No interim was paid on the Ordinary shares last year. The payment for the period was 5 per cent., earnings being equivalent to 28.7 per cent. per Ordinary share.

EDINBURGH RUBBER ESTATES.—The report for the year ended November 30, 1931, states that the estate is in satisfactory condition. Rubber sold realised an average price of 4.64d. per lb. The programme of replanting was continued during the year, and expenditure of £1,402 has been charged to amortisation account and written off the general reserve. It has been considered advisable to continue to make provision for depreciation on the usual scale, although there is a loss on the year's working. The sum standing at credit of profit and loss account amounts to £1,101, which, it is recommended, should be carried forward subject to directors' fees. In the previous year the sum at credit of profit and loss account was £6,331. There was transferred to reserve the sum of £2,500, leaving £3,831 to be carried forward. Last payment made was 2½ per cent. (for 1928-29).

TRUST AND AGENCY OF AUSTRALASIA.—After payment of management expenses, taxes, interest charges, and providing £34,811 as against £17,793 for loss on exchange, the accounts for 1931 show a surplus of £35,213, which compares with £66,973 in 1930. There was brought forward £18,607, making available £53,820. The Preference dividend absorbed £50,000, and it is proposed to carry forward the remaining £3,820. Last year £10,000 was transferred to exchange and contingencies account, and a dividend of 10 per cent., tax free, was paid on the Ordinary Shares.

HODGSON'S KINGSTON BREWERY.—Interim dividend for the six months ending the 31st March, 1932, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, less tax. (Same.)

JOHN DICKINSON AND CO. (paper makers and manufacturing stationers).—In the year ended December 31 last the net profit declined from £183,651 to £174,666, and £70,254 was brought forward. The directors allocate £15,000 to general reserve, a like sum to special reserves, and £6,000 to pensions fund, and recommend a final dividend on the Ordinary Shares of 5 per cent., making 8 per cent. for the year, including employés' series, leaving a balance of £71,768 to carry forward. For 1930 the dividend was 10 per cent., and £20,000 was added to special reserves.

JOSEPH CROSSFIELD AND SONS (WARRINGTON).—Profit, £680,072, against £593,488. Ordinary dividend of 30 per cent., against 15 per cent.; forward £54,365, against £51,793 brought in. The company is a subsidiary of Lever Bros.

KELLNER PARTINGTON PAPER PULP.—Ordinary dividend of 5 per cent., tax free (same).

RICHARD THOMAS.—The directors announce that they are unable to recommend the payment of the Preference dividend due yesterday. The dividend on the 6½ per cent., tax free up to 6/-, Cumulative Preference Shares is in arrear since March 31, 1926.

REYROLLE AND CO.—An increase from £177,247 to £183,165 in trading profits, and a rise in other income from £7,500 to £11,087 is shown in the accounts for 1931. The Ordinary dividend is to be at the same rate as previously named, 12½ per cent., but requires more on this occasion, as during the year the final call on the shares issued in 1930 was made. It is stated that orders received during 1931 showed a decrease compared with 1930, but there was an increase in the sales of completed work.

RADCLIFFES EDIBLE PRODUCTS (MANCHESTER).—Ordinary dividend of 2½ per cent. (Against 10 per cent.)

UNITED KINGDOM TOBACCO COMPANY (1929).—Net profit for 1931 after depreciation, etc., was £30,061, compared with a net loss of £26,233. After deducting debit balance of £19,147 brought in, and paying the dividend on the Preference Shares for the half-year ended December 31, 1930, a credit balance of £3,413 is carried forward. No dividend has yet been paid on the Ordinary Shares, which are of 10/- denomination.

LONDON MINING MARKET SLOW.

INTEREST IN ALL DEPARTMENTS AT LOW EBB.

Business in the Mining market remained on a very small scale yesterday. Rumours were heard of some unimportant failures in Brussels, and this apparently was responsible for the dulness of the Paris market during the early hours. Later in the day the French capital was reported to be firmer, but did not extend its purchases to the Mining market. Very few movements were recorded in the Kaffir department, where interest was at a low ebb. The price of copper fell to £30. The price of spot tin dropped to £114 at one time, but closed at £115 10s. per ton. A little selling developed in the share market, but alterations were mostly small. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

NEW ISSUES.

According to statistics compiled by the Midland Bank, Ltd., issues of new capital—excluding all borrowings by the British Government—for the month of March, 1932, totalled £12,104,000, against £13,447,000 for the same month last year. For the three months to 31st March issues total £26,995,000, compared with £45,386,000 for the same three months of 1931.

RUBBER MAGNATE ON INDUSTRY'S PLIGHT.

That the restriction of rubber production could now only be enforced with the co-operation and approval of consumers was the contention of Mr. J. S. Arter, presiding at the annual meeting of the Planters' Association of Malaya at Kuala Lumpur (Federated Malay States). Referring to the present war of attrition, the speaker said that every time a complacent company director told the world that his estates had reduced its costs another quarter of a cent the market politely adjusted itself to this figure rather than cast doubts on his assertion. "We are an industry without a secret, subject to an entire change of world conditions. The work of elimination will inevitably continue until we have arrived at the same point of bankruptcy which is indicated as the probable result of drastic restriction."

BRAZIL COFFEE LOAN.

Messrs. N. M. Rothschild and Sons announce on behalf of the Brazilian Government that the whole of the outstanding bonds of the United States of Brazil Government 7½ per cent. (Coffee Security) Loan of 1922 will be repaid on October 1 next at 102 per cent. together with accrued interest.

IMPERIAL CHEMICAL'S REPORT.

Although the main results of the Imperial Chemical Industries for the year 1931 have been already announced, there is a good deal of interest in the full report. Not the least important statement is that approximately £1,750,000 has been expended during the year in maintaining buildings and plant in a high state of efficiency, and the whole of this amount has been charged against profits. The book value of the principal holdings shows an increase of £2,992,513, due mainly to the increase in securities of subsidiary companies, in which the I.C.I. holds over 50 per cent. of the shares or has control. The expansion in this case of £2,696,027 is due to the acquisition of additional shares and the taking up of unissued share capital in certain companies in repayment of cash advances. The directors have decided to write down the assets of these subsidiary companies by £1,837,596, and, after making this adjustment, the total book value of the securities in and advances to subsidiary companies, less debts due to them, is £69,264,9 The total book value of marketable other securities on December 31 was £10,182,771, and the market value or computed value in certain cases was £3,346, less than that figure. The directors consider that values, as measured by Stock Exchange quotations, are abnormal, and, until the general financial situation is clearer and a more stable level of prices evident, it would be premature to make any revaluation while the general reserve amply covers the depreciation. Bearing in mind the general depression of world trade in 1931, the directors consider that the company has done well to avoid any greater falls in the volume of trade than those indicated. A steady and successful pursuit throughout the organisation of a vigorous policy of efficiency and economy has contributed to this result.
